18 Perish as Airliner Crashes Into Albany Home

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A twin-engine Mohawk Airlines turbo-prop flying on one engine crashed into a house in uptown Albany while approaching Albany County Airport in light snow Friday night with 47 persons aboard.

At least 18 persons were killed. Five of the bodies were placed on a lawn next door to the crash scene as workers continued extricating victims from the plane.

Dr. David Pankin of the Albany Medical Center Hospital, who was aiding the victims at the scene, said 14 persons were pronounced dead on arrival at the scene and three were pronounced dead on arrival at the medical center. One person was dead on arrival at St. Peter's Hospital.

A nurse said the pilot and copilot were among the dead. Names of the victims were not available.

"They were all trapped in the seats," said Robert Dumas, a Colonie fireman who was one of the first inside the plane. "Each seat went forward like dominoes, piled on top of each other."

The plane, which reported engine trouble just prior to the crash, slammed into a two-story wood frame house, jolting the dwelling from its foundation. Firemen used metal shears to extricate the dead and injured from the wreckage. A number of bodies were carried out wrapped in blankets and plastic bags, and a first aid station was set up in a nearby garage.

The occupants of the house, Joseph Rosen, his wife and two children, escaped injury.

Fred Paul, a neighbor, said "We heard a whistle and a crash. That's all we know."

Paul said Rosen told him the family was "just sitting there" when the crash occurred. Newsmen were kept at a distance from the accident scene.

The crash caved in one wall of the house, and the roof collapsed down on the nose of the plane.

The crash scene was along Edgewood Avenue, a few blocks from Washington Avenue, a busy, four-lane city street, about midway between downtown Albany and the State University campus on Albany's western edge.

A woman who said she lived in the area said she heard the plane overhead.

"They come in so low all the time I didn't pay any attention to it," she said, "and then I heard the crash."

It was snowing at the time of the crash.

Lines Appointed Chief of Police

CLAREMONT — The Claremont City Council in executive session Friday evening officially appointed Charles R. Lines the city's new chief of police.

CHARLES LINES

Shortly after the council unanimously ratified Line's appointment, the new chief met with the 35 members of the police department.

Lines, 41, a 15-year veteran police officer, has been acting chief of the department since the city's former chief, Richard Morrison, was forced to take medical leave Dec. 9, 1970. Chief Morrison, after 13 years on the department, was forced to retire in 1971 after undergoing open-heart surgery.

Since Lines' temporary appointment as acting chief, the city successfully passed a $700,000 bond election for a new police station. The new station will be constructed near Indian Hill Boulevard and 4th Street.

Keith Mulrooney, Claremont city manager, said that Lines has been working dilligently with the city planning commission and the city council to complete plans for the new buildings slated for completion in October, 1973.

For some time now the council has been meeting in executive sessions to review the applications for the position. Lines was among seven finalists for the position. Originally, the city called for an open examination of all qualified officers to fill the position. Lines was one of those eligible.

Lines, a graduate of Chaffey High School, has completed his AA degree in police science after successfully completing courses at Mt. San Antonio College, Cal State at Los Angeles and USC, plus a number of specialized courses. At one time he was president of the Claremont Police Officers Assn.

U.S. Gives Reagan OK On Welfare Proposal

One-Year Experiment On Work or Forfeit Plan Starts April 1

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With some officials openly skeptical, the administration Friday authorized Gov. Ronald Reagan of California to begin a one-year experiment in his plan to "bring welfare back under control" by requiring ablebodied welfare recipients to register for jobs or work training or forfeit their relief checks.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, scaling down Reagan's original plan, gave California approval to start the program April 1 for 30,000 welfare recipients in 35 counties, including such major urban areas as San Francisco, Sacramento and Orange County in Southern California.

President Nixon approved the idea Aug. 20 after a 90-minute meeting with Reagan at San Clemente, Calif. The White House said at the time that "we think these experiments are compatible with the workfare provision in the welfare reform legislation" still before Congress.

A total of 58,000 welfare recipients will be required to register for the program, which will provide public service jobs for only 30,000 in the first year. The recipients, who will be required to work 80 hours per month without additional pay beyond their welfare checks, will be assigned such jobs as schoolyard monitoring, park maintenance and crosswalk supervision.

The 58,000 registrants represent roughly 3.8 per cent of the individuals and 13.2 per cent of the families on the aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) program.

At Nixon's direction, HEW also developed experimental work-relief programs for New York and Illinois, but Illinois subsequently backed out of the program.

Friday's action by HEW constituted a waiver required under a 1967 law under which Congress prohibited states from requiring welfare clients to work off their assistance.

Until Congress acted, 26 states had tried similar forms of work-relief. "It is fair to say this kind of approach has never worked in the past," a Surprise Witnesses Promised

ITT Mystery Deepening

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Contradictory actions Friday deepened the mystery surrounding charges of impropriety against Attorney General - designate Richard G. Kleindienst, his predecessor John N. Mitchell, and Justice Department settlement of a landmark antitrust battle with International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

The charges centered on whether Kleindienst and Mitchell were involved in a Justice Department settlement that gave ITT some elements it sought, and whether if they knew at the time that ITT had offered $200,000 —and perhaps more —toward defraying expenses of the Republican National Convention in San Diego this August.

In rapid succession:

—Chairman James O. Eastland of the Senate Judiciary Committee abruptly recessed a special hearing on the charges after two hours of testimony by Kleindienst. Former Attorney General Mitchell was left waiting near the witness table. Eastland, D-Miss., scheduled another session for Tuesday and promised to produce three surprise witnesses.

—California's Republican lieutenant governor, Ed Reinecke, told reporters he had informed Mitchell last spring about an ITT offer to help underwrite the cost of the GOP National Convention this year. Reinecke then did an about-face and said it was in September —not May as he had said —that he told Mitchell. The Justice Department and ITT agreed on their multibillion dollar settlement in July.

—ITT's lone lobbyist in Washington, Mrs. Rita Beard, a woman said to be the author of a secret company memo which allegedly documents involvement by Mitchell and Kleindienst in the settlement, failed to honor a second subpoena for questioning by the Senate panel. Eastland said 20 FBI agents had been dispatched to find her.

Mitchell officially stepped down as Attorney General Wednesday to head President Nixon's re-election campaign. He told reporters at the time that he had no knowledge of financing for the GOP convention, and had not been involved in the ITT settlement.

Kleindienst's nomination to succeed Mitchell, unanimously approved by the Eastland Committee several days ago, was still unscheduled for a vote by the full Senate on confirmation.

Both men were told to return for Tuesday's hearing.

Meantime both were accused anew of not telling the truth about their relationship to the ITT settlement.

La Verne College Honors History Prof, Housewife

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — A history professor with a penchant for studying organized crime and a housewife who founded one of the largest nursery schools in the Pomona Valley were honored Friday night by La Verne College.

Dr. Nicholas C. Polos, associate professor of history at the college, was named teacher of the year. Mrs. Ruth B. Hersch, founder and still director of the nursery school at the Church of the Brethren, was recipient of the community service award.

They were singled out for their achievements at the 1972 New Era Banquet of the college, attended by 600 persons in the dining room of the Church of the Brethren.

They heard Dr. Leland B. Newcomer, president of the college, caution that "the small independent college of today must be able to accurately predict the future in order to survive."

"We must be innovators," he declared. "We must remain flexible. We must not become dinosaurs."

His remarks preceded the presentation of the two awards. The teacher of the year recognition was announced by Dr. Herbert Hogan, dean of faculty. The community service award was made by Newcomer.

Polos was chosen outstanding teacher of the year by a vote of students, first year alumni and members of the faculty.

This is Polos' fourth year at the college. He came here from Queens College, City University of New York, graduate division.

Polos is a graduate of Pomona College who earned his master's degree at Harvard University and his doctorate at UC Berkeley.

He is the author of two books, "American Government in Action," and "The Dynamics of Team Teaching." His book reviews appear frequently in the Scan Section of the Progress-Bulletin.

He is also involved in La Verne College's off-campus program at the California Youth Authority in Chino, where he teaches a course in government and history.

Mrs. Hersch won her award for service to her community and church since she and her husband, Paul, moved to La Verne in 1953.

In addition to founding the church's nursery school, she also organized its Head Start program. Presently, the nursery school is being used as a training project by the college for students.

Mrs. Hersch is a graduate of Manchester College, Indiana. Today, 30 years later, she is working on her master's degree at La Verne College.

In addition to her church work, she has been a volunteer with the American Cancer Society, United Crusade, Little League and the Dean Kennan Scholarship Fund.

Entertainment at the event was provided by the college choir, which recently returned from a tour of the Southeastern United States and Puerto Rico. W. Donald Clague, dean of graduate studies, served as master of ceremonies.

Tells Judge Before Life Sentence Pronounced

Sickle-Slayer Admits He Was at Site

NEVADA CITY — Convicted sickle-slayer Clarence Otis Smith Friday was formally sentenced to life in prison for slaying two campers to death last summer.

Superior Court Judge Harold Wolters pronounced the sentence decreed in January by the jury which found the 44-year-old former garbage collector guilty of the slayings.

Before being formally sentenced, Smith was granted permission to make a statement to Wolters in which he admitted being at the scene of the July 12 killings at a Bear River campground. During his trial, he maintained he was at home sleeping the night of the killings.

Smith said he remembered one of the victims, John Simmons, 29, Weimar, Calif., fired a gun at him at the campground.

He also said that self-styled mail order minister Everett Richardson had told him to kill "hippies" at the river.

Smith said Richardson had found him drunk at his Weimar home the day before the killing and told him that "the only way I could redeem myself for the sin of drinking is to go down to the river and destroy some hippies."

"There have been many lies told in this trial," Smith said. "I am the 20th Century sacrificial scapegoat."

Richardson, a key witness in the Smith trial, was sentenced to federal prison Thursday for transporting a stolen car across a state line.

Smith was convicted of first-degree murder in the slaying of Donna Fitzhugh, 28, of Ontario and second-degree murder in the killing of Simmons.

Younger Asks Court To Reconsider Death Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—In a sharply worded petition, California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger asked the State Supreme Court Friday to reconsider its decision outlawing the death penalty.

Younger said the Feb. 18 ruling usurped legislative functions, eroded the constitutional separation of powers, and decided a federal question when it was before the U.S. Supreme Court.

"The court's abolition of the death penalty is one more in a wave of recent decisions from this court violating California's constitutional separation of power," Younger said in a formal petition requesting a rehearing.

The court, which struck down capital punishment in a 6-1 decision, was not expected to grant the petition. But it served to lay the groundwork for a later appeal by Younger to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The California court carefully made plain it was ruling that executions violate the state constitution, which bans "cruel or unusual" punishment, rather than the U.S. Constitution, which uses the phrase "cruel and unusual."

Younger said such a far-reaching decision should not hinge on the "haphazard choice" of words of California's 1849 state constitutional convention.

"Despite its desclaimer, this court has decided the federal 8th amendment issue of cruel and unusual punishment," the petition said.

Younger said the court's main findings rested on situations brought about by the court itself.

"It is at best self-contradictory for this court to find the death penalty 'cruel' by reason of the length of preexecution confinement, where this condition has resulted mainly from this court's review and this court's successive reversals of individual cases," the petition said.

"This court's action in finding the death penalty 'unusual' by reason of the judicially arrested rate of executions, while ignoring the steady rate of jury death verdicts and other indicators of society's acceptance of the death penalty, demonstrates that the court has based its decision on the court's own revolving standards rather than on society's standards."

To Offset Actor's Performances

S.D. Candidate Given Equal TV Time

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — At least one City Council candidate has been promised prime television time by KABC and KNBC television stations for a political plug to match equal time performances of actor Ed Nelson.

Nelson appeared for about 15 minutes on the ABC's American Sportsmen show last Sunday and for 18 minutes on Night Gallery on NBC Wednesday night. Prime television time sells for about $1,000 a minute.

Candidate Charles Wilson said his call to KABC television Friday morning was "just under the wire" to meet the seven-day limit placed on the equal time appeal set by the Federal Communications Commission.

The other five candidates, Terry Dipple, Mrs. Pauline Ball, Donald Kinsey, Keith Brogan and incumbent Thomas Nuss will have until Wednesday to challenge KNBC for Nelson's 18-minute appearance on Night Gallery.

The prospect of giving equal time to candidates because of Nelson television appearances threw television programming director into action when the matter was disclosed Friday.

A spokesman for John Reynolds, general manager of KTLA Television, said films would be reviewed and any featuring Nelson would be pulled because he is a candidate.

Wilson said Lee Schulman, program director for KNBC, confirmed that he is eligible for the equal time and will set up a time for his appearance. Marjorie Luke of KABC said further arrangements would be made with Wilson Monday or Tuesday.

Wilson, an outspoken critic of city government in San Dimas, said he isn't the least bit timid about appearing before a television audience of millions.

Wilson, who can use the time for any subject, said he plans to discuss what he feels is bad government in San Dimas during his television appearances.

Nelson said Friday he feels the entire idea is "absurd."

ONTARIO — A 77-year-old Ontario man was in the intensive care unit in critical condition at Kaiser's Fontana Hospital after falling from the roof of a home at 207 S. Vine St. Friday morning.

William M. Hamer, according to police, was cutting branches off a tree from the roof of the home when he apparently lost his footing and fell 15 feet. He suffered multiple injuries in the fall and was given emergency first aid treatment by the Ontario Fire Department Rescue team and rushed by ambulance to the Fontana hospital.

The accident occurred about 10:10 a.m. Friday.

But They Can't Toast Occasion

California's 18-Year-Olds Are Instant Adults Today

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — An estimated 1.1 million young Californians become "instant adults" today with virtually all the legal rights of their parents except for toasting the occasion with a drink.

Under a bill signed with some "concern" by Gov. Ronald Reagan, Californians now reach adulthood at age 18 instead of 21.

This permits them, among other things, to serve on juries, become policemen, sign contracts, obtain credit cards, conduct driver education classes and record cattle brands.

Young men marry at age 18 without parental consent, a privilege previously granted their brides.

But they still can't drink alcohol legally. The state Constitution sets the minimum drinking age at 21 and Reagan says "as a parent" he hopes to keep it that way.

Voting privileges were granted all 18-year-old Americans last year by a federal constitutional amendment. It also gave young people the right to hold public office.

There are some disadvantages for 18-year-olds in the new California law, which takes effect Saturday.

An estimated 29,000 new adults stand to be cut off welfare because they no longer are minors. Reagan is seeking emergency legislation to allow students with passing grades to remain on relief so their education will not be interrupted.

Young adults will be tried in criminal courts, although judges still can sentence them to youth institutions instead of state prisons.

Parents are relieved of liability if their 18-to 20-year-old children get into automobile accidents.

Unless legislation now pending is approved, community colleges will lose $34 million in state funds because the definition of adult has been changed.

"Those who enjoy the privileges of voting also should be expected to assume the responsibilities of full citizenship," Reagan said in signing the bill last December.

The Republican governor said he recognized that "just as some persons in the so-called 'over-21-age group' don't necessarily conduct themselves as mature adults, there also will be some in the 18-to-21 age category whose behavior will fall short."

Pomona Man Faces Grand Theft Charge

POMONA — A Pomona man, arrested Feb. 17 in an elaborate police stakeout which involved use of the department's helicopter, has been charged with grand theft in the theft of a pistol.

Dean Carter, 29, 11350 Wesley Ave., was arraigned before Pomona Municipal Court Judge Norman L. Vroman, who scheduled his pretrial hearing Friday. The matter is being handled as a misdemeanor.

Carter, an auto mechanic, was accused of taking a pistol planted by police in a car given him to road test. Officers said the helicopter was used as an observation point as he road-tested the car.

Upon Carter's return, the pistol was missing and was found in his tool chest, investigators said.

Report Taiwan Pleased Over U.S. Reassurances

TAIPEI (UPI) — Assistant U.S. Secretary of State Marshall Green said Friday his mission to reassure Nationalist China of continued American support despite improved relations with Peking was successful.

Official statements issued by the Taiwan government indicated it was satisfied with Green's reassurances during his visit here, one of a series of missions he is making to Southeast Asian nations as a followup to President Nixon's visit to China.

Green flew from Taipei to Manila Friday afternoon, arriving there aboard a U.S. Air Force jet for a weekend of similar meetings with Philippine officials, including President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

In an airport news conference prior to his departure from Taiwan, Green said he considered his mission here "successful for both sides."

The Nationalist Foreign Ministry Friday night issued a statement saying the government had received from Green "a further understanding of the clarifications and assurances" of the United States.

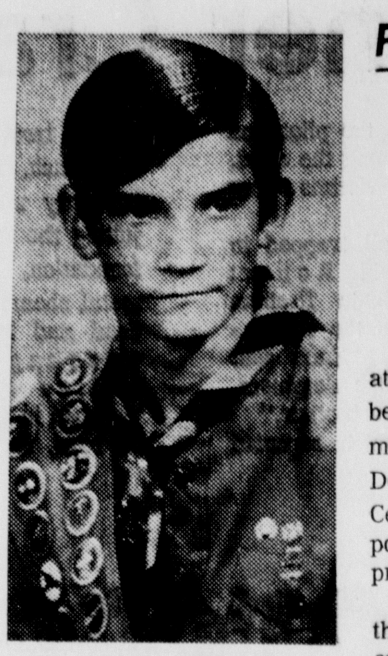
"It is also the desire of the government of the Republic of China that Sino-American relationships in all fields would be further strengthened as time goes on," the official statement said.

A ranking government official said Green "clarified a lot of major points in the joint Shanghai communique" issued by Nixon and Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai. As a result, he "succeeded in removing many doubts and suspicions from our mind," the official said.

The official declined to elaborate but it was apparent he was reffering to the reiterated U.S. intention to honor the 18-year-old mutual defense between the United States and Taiwan and Nixon's remarks in the Shanghai communique that U.S. military forces will eventually be withdrawn from Taiwan as tension eases in this region.

The official cited as basis for his optimism Green's predeparture statement in which he said:

"In these meetings (with Nationalist officials) I stressed, as has President Nixon on several occasions, that faithfully honoring all of our commitments remains a cornerstone of U.S. policy. This cornerstone is as solid as ever."



STEVE SENKLE

Area Scout To Receive Eagle Honor

MONTCLAIR — Steve Senkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Senkle of 4911 Benito Ave., will be promoted to the rank of Eagle Scout during the court of honor for Boy Scout Troop 313 Sunday.

The court of honor will be held at 4 p.m. in the Monte Vista School auditorium. The troop is sponsored by the Montclair office of Sleep Craft of California.

Senkle is serving as senior patrol leader for his troops. The 14-year-old boy works part-time as a carrier for the Progress-Bulletin. As a Montclair High School freshman, he is active on the tennis team and as a clarinet player in the school band.

Russian Sub Still Adrift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Battered by 20-foot waves and 45-mile-an-hour winds and obscured by intermittent snow and fog, a Soviet submarine bearing missiles pointed at the United States continued to drift helplessly in the North Atlantic, the Pentagon said Friday.

The nuclear sub's normal crew is 90 men but Pentagon officials did not know if the crew had been removed to any of the Russian surface ships struggling to help the disabled sub.

Experienced seamen said that if any of the men remained on board after a week on the surface in rough seas, "It would be a vomitous crew to say the least." Another Navy man said, "That boat could be the biggest pollution factor in the North Atlantic today."

The boat had been towed out of range of North America and toward the safety of a Russian port earlier in the week. But the tow lines were lost in the heavy seas. After several attempts to get another line to the sub, the Russians apparently halted the effort Thursday, the Pentagon said.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Boutwell remains in the area but the Russians have not asked for any help.

Approximately 9,000 offshore oil wells have been sunk in the world's continental shelves.

Parole Dates Rescinded For 9 Don Lugo Inmates

CHINO — Parole dates for at least nine inmates have been rescinded after their removal from the controversial Don Lugo Work Furlough Center for allegedly being in possession of contraband, said prison authorities.

A prison spokesman said that two other inmates face criminal complaints for allegedly being in possession of firearms inside the work camp.

The contraband was discovered in early February, following a search of the grounds by correctional officers. The search was ordered one day after an inmate, being questioned by prison investigators, pulled a gun and escaped the camp in a hail of gunfire.

The inmate, Stanley B. Parker, is being held for prison authorities in Aurora, Colo. after he was arrested for allegedly attempting to shoot a police officer. Police there said the inmate pulled a .32 caliber pistol on the officer and pulled the trigger twice, but the weapon misfired.

Since Parker's escape, a full-scale investigation into the center and its operations has been under way by the state Bureau of Investigation, ordred by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger.

The prison spokesman said the men held back from parole would not go up before the Adult Authority for new dates until six months from now. Others had their paroles continued for at least a year.

Also, as a result of numerous crimes allegedly committed by inmates either on 72-hour-pass or work furloughs, the special pre-release program that allows inmates close to their parole dates to seek and find work on the outside have been temporarily suspended.

For New Residential Homes

Public Hearing To Be Held on Setting Minimum Floor Areas

POMONA — The Pomona Planning Commission will schedule a public hearing to consider setting minimum floor areas for new residential homes.

Members of the City Council directed a hearing be held during a joint session this week with planners.

Planner Ray Lepire noted the commission had recommended seven months ago a resolution setting minimum floor areas, but the City Council had voted to "receive and file it."

Councilmen C. L. Bryant and Charles Bader, however, urged the new hearing be scheduled. Bader suggested that developers be invited to attend.

John Speidel, a local businessman, also suggested that the city advertise the hearing in trade publications and invite people in the building profession to attend.

The proposed resolution divided the living area requirements into two sections: The first, for R1-6000, R1-7200 and R1-7500 zones, would have these minimum sizes: four rooms or less with maximum of two bedrooms, 1,100 square feet; five rooms with maximum of three bedrooms, 1,250 square feet; and for every additional room over five or bedroom over three, 150 square feet.

The second, for R1-10,000 to R1-40,000 zones, would have these minimum sizes: four rooms or less with maximum of two bedrooms, 1,200 square feet; five rooms with maximum of three bedrooms, 1,400 square feet; and for every additional room over five or bedroom over three, 200 square feet.

During a discussion, Planner J. Romo noted there are some instances where a home of less than 1,100 square feet would be needed. "This would involve persons who have retired and don't want to move into a trailer house or a newly married couple just getting started."

Officials asked if the ordinance could include provisions for houses less than the minimum floor area.

Robert C. Gustaveson, city attorney, said the city shouldn't try to control this with a conditional use permit, but with standards.

Mayor Richard Brownell reported that in many cases, the Federal Housing Administration will dictate the size and assortment of the houses being built. "If the builder doesn't follow these, he will not get the financing."

Richard Coleman, city planning director, noted after the meeting he will present a new proposed ordinance which divides the house sizes into three, instead of two, zoning standards. "We will base this on the assumption that the larger the lot, the larger the house, the smaller the lot, the smaller the house."

Faulkner Rips Kennedy For Asking Withdrawal

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Prime Minister Brian Faulkner said Friday that Senator Edward Kennedy's recent call for the withdrawal of British troops from Northern Ireland showed "prejudice and ignorance."

"We are part of the United Kingdom, on a full equality with other parts," Faulkner said in a speech to the annual meeting of the Ulster Unionist Council. He emphasized that his government would resist any attempts to separate the province from the United Kingdom, but he called for the strengthening of government institutions in the province, possibly "through changes in the parliamentary machinery."

Faulkner said Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) "revealed the depths of his prejudice and ignorance" in his recent statements about the crisis in Northern Ireland.

Senator Kennedy's reference to the "Bloody Sunday" killings in Londonderry as "Britain's My Lai" caused strong reaction both in Northern Ireland and Britain.

In London, the British Home Secretary Reginald Maulding said Tuesday in response to the "views of a distinguished, perhaps notorious American politician," that, "the fact is that Northern Ireland is part of the United Kingdom and the army of the United Kingdom is always and will always be available to maintain law and order in any part of the United Kingdom."

Ford said "it was inevitable at an early stage that the IRA (Irish Republican Army) and hooligans would take control of this illegal march, no matter what the (civil rights) organizers wished."

Reagan Gets U.S. Okay on Welfare Plan

HEW official who declined identification told newsmen. "It becomes a make-work kind of thing."

Nevertheless, HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson, who was in New Hampshire, issued a statement through his office here saying, "We will be following the progress of the project with great care."

HEW said the goals are to demonstrate that a large-scale work-relief plan is administratively feasible and that it will reduce welfare rolls, discourage new applications for aid and cut welfare costs.

The federal government will provide $500,000, mostly to cover administrative costs of the experiment. The test is intended to run for three years, but California must return to Washington for further approval after the first year.

Able-bodied men and women on welfare will be given a job or assigned to work training. If neither is available, the recipient may be assigned to the California Community Work Experience program, which requires up to 80 hours of work a month at a public agency or a nonprofit, nonsectarian charitable organization.

"They show up every two weeks and if there's a job for them, they go to work," a HEW aide said. "If not, they go home."

Excluded are recipients under the age of 17, mothers who have children aged 6 or younger, those already employed or in work training, or the disabled. No mother of a child over 6 will be required to participate unless suitable child care is available.

HEW said a county-by-county child care plan must be submitted by California.

If the sun stopped shining suddenly, it would take the people on earth eight minutes to find it out, that being the time it takes sunlight to reach the earth.

Two Rob Hotel Guest in Room

POMONA — Two men, one armed with a small caliber revolver, robbed a 22-year-old Pomona man in a room at the Mayfair Hotel, 3rd and Thomas streets, about 7 p.m. Friday, police reported.

Police said the two men, both Negroes, escaped in a late model car with damage to the right rear fender after the robbery. The robbery victim told police he was followed upstairs to his room by one of the bandits.

Inside the room, one bandit pulled a gun and pointed it at the back of his head and the second came out of the closet. They took his wallet containing cash and other items and fled, police said.

Massage Parlor Trial Transferred

POMONA — The trial of a woman charged in the recent massage parlor investigation has been transferred into Los Angeles by Presiding Pomona Municipal Court Judge Norman L. Vroman because of her manslaughter conviction here.

The woman, Lida J. Foster, 24, of 1108 Radway St., La Puente, is charged with soliciting for prostitution. She was among 12 women arrested Dec. 29 as the result of a sheriff's vice detail investigation here.

The defendant's lawyer, William J. Cuthbert of La Puente, filed an affidavit of prejudice Thursday against Pomona Municipal Court Judge James H. Piatt, making it impossible for him to hear the case.

Previously, the district attorney's office filed a similar affidavit involving a similar case against Pomona Municipal Court Judge Houston A. Snidow. That left Vroman the only judge capable of hearing the case.

But Thursday he disqualified himself because he is to sentence the woman March 8 on a manslaughter conviction.

That case involved the death Aug. 20 of Robert L. Young, 29, El Monte, in a three-vehicle collision at Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard. Miss Foster was the driver of one of the vehicles and recently pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor manslaughter charge.

Vroman transferred the morals case to Division 20 of Los Angeles Municipal Court.

Man Charged In Extortion Kidnap Hoax

POMONA — George Otto Johnson, 30, has been charged with posing as a kidnaper in order to obtain ransom in an extortion attempt here Feb. 27.

Johnson, 217 N. Sunset Ave., West Covina, was arrested by police alerted to the extortion attempt. He was driving near the location where the money left by the father of two children was picked up.

Earlier Ray Best, 41, supervisor at Thriftimart Market, 3200 N. Towne Ave., had received a telephone call in which the caller warned he had Best's two children and demanded money from the market safe for their return.

It developed that the children never had been endangered and Best had been unable to reach them at home because their telephone line was busy.

Johnson was arraigned before Pomona Municipal Court Judge Norman L. Vroman who scheduled his preliminary hearing for March 8.

Claremont Wants Edison Co. Lines Underground

CLAREMONT — The City Council is asking Southern California Edison Co. for a sufficient advance in allocation funds to permit undergrounding that firm's power lines along Indian Hill Boulevard between Arrow Highway and 1st Street.

The council Monday night authorized Mayor Ed Malan to send a letter to the utility company to request funds necessary. If a full advance is not possible, the city requests a three-year advance to construct as much of the project as possible now.

Public Works Director James Hudak explained that in 1969 the Public Utilities Commissin set up regulations requiring all utilities to set aside a percentage of funds to put their lines underground, the funds being decided by the number of customers in a given city.

Hudak said that the city can set up an underground district to designate where the allocated funds will be spent. The city would contact all property owners affected by the undergrounding. Those owners would have to have their house connections undergrounded by a private contractor.

The council has chosen Indian Hill Boulevard as the No. 1 priority street in the city, since it is the gateway from the San Bernardino Freeway.

Before the PUC ruling went into effect, Edison undergrounded the Village area.

Hudak reported that the city's allotments from Edison for 1968 through 1971 minus the cost of undergrounding utilities on Indian Hill Boulevard between Foothill Boulevard and Base Line Road left a balance of $33,225.

Edison's Claremont manager David E. Martin has estimated that the current project would cost $172,000, leaving $138,775 needed to complete the project.

"At the present rate this would require an advance of in excess of six years allotments," Martin said.

"This means that unless some supplementary plan of financing is utilized, it probably will be three years before the total project could be financed."

Hudak recommended to the council that the city delay the project for two years and at that time seek an advance in funds to do the entire job.

On the other hand, City Manager Keith Mulrooney reported that he has discussed the undergrounding project with officials of Specialty Restaurants Inc., who will build a multi-million restaurant and shopping complex on 1st Street, and that he believes the city should proceed with as much of the project as it is able to finance at the present time.

Lindsay Delegates Are Chosen in Area

If New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay wins the Democratic nomination for president in the June primary, his California delegation to the national convention in Miami will include several Pomona Valley residents.

Fourteen Democrats from Pomona, Diamond Bar, La Puente, Hacienda Heights, Claremont and Upland were chosen as delegates or alternates by Lindsay's statewide organizing committee.

Selected as delegates from the 25th Congressional District were Ruth E. Cetin of Diamond Bar, Sally V. Garcia of La Puente, Faith M. McKechnie of Hacienda Heights, D. Ann Richards of Glendora and William L. Torres of Hacienda Heights.

Picked as alternates were Marjorie Lee Cray of Covina, William H. Wingfield of Covina, and Robert Grimsgaard of Whittier.

Delegates from the 33rd Congressional District are Monroe Jones and Barbara H. Mahoney, both of Pomona, Ellen Alperstein and Alice A. Petree, both of Claremont, and Janet S. Portolan of Upland.

Alternates are Kimmie Thomas of Pomona, Phyllis F. Williams of Redlands and Robin A. Rhodes of Claremont.

Jones was appointed by Lindsay as congressional representative and Mrs. Mahoney is representative at-large for the Lindsay '72 Committee.

From the 38th Congressional District, delegates are John Kenneth Longville of Colton, Phyllis Leah Brice, Tony Navarro and Maria Elena Yepes, all of Pomona, and John Zarate of Corona.

Alternates are Arthur A. Forcier of Colton and Stephen M. Pulido of Riverside.

Residents interested in circulating petitions to place Lindsay's name on the June ballot or working on the campaign should contact Mrs. Mahoney at 593-6450 or Jones at 629-4800.

A breakdown of the state delegation shows that 50.5 per cent are female, 34 per cent are under 30, 60 per cent are 30 to 60, 66 per cent are Anglo, 14 per cent are Negro, 16 per cent are Mexican-American and 4 per cent are of other racial ethnic background.

Delegates were chosen following nominations made recently at caucuses held in the state's congressional districts.

How To Train For Marriage

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Friends—is your marriage in trouble? (Or do you just WISH it were?)

If you are having problems with your mate, or somebody else's mate, there is hope in store at the Child Guidance Center at Chicago's Loyola University. Go there and play with model trains.

Well—what are you sitting there for? You heard me. You may also have heard psychologist Bernard Liebovitz who wants to study couples as they operate choo-choo trains. He feels much can be learned about marriage problems by the way men and women solve difficulties encountered in running toy trains. I personally think he's on the wrong track.

Dr. Leibovitz wants 256 volunteer couples, but he is seeking "normal couples"—those without serious marital problems. These are NORMAL couples?

The train game, engineered by the Family Institute of Chicago and the Illinois Department of Mental Health, is played by husband and wife, each with his own train and his own set of tracks. By some electronic wizardry the operation offers problems, confrontations, and simulated collisions. Sounds like a you-know-what way to run a Child Guidance Center.

"You can tell a lot about a couple by seeing who backs up consistently, who orders the other to back up and in general how people negotiate their obstacles," Dr. Liebovitz says.

When was the last time you ordered your wife to back up—without getting a fat lip?

Furthermore, men have a greater interest in model trains than women, if we are to believe the chief social commentary of our times, the comics. The husband would be having a ball speeding around the tracks, but the wife would probably get bored soon and cause the wreck of the old '97.

"Honey, watch what you're doing!" he would say. "You almost hit me on that siding."

"Well, you shouldn't have come barreling through the yard like that. Anyway, I think it's a stupid game. You're just like a little boy. Last Christmas Timmy hardly got to play with that train Santa brought him until you'd gone back to work."

"Nonsense. I was just showing the kid how to run—hey, look out! We can't both go through the tunnel at the same time. Back up, will you?"

"You back up, you big ape. I was there first. I'll give you three to get out of the way, then I'll—"

"Sorehead! Women always spoil everything. For two cents I'd . . ."

Maybe this normal couple didn't have any "serious marital problems" when they arrived at the roundhouse, but it's a cinch they do now.

Chamber Plans Various Events

CLAREMNT — Review of the March membership drive, a briefing on the Pomona Valley vocational educational program, and plans for a "meet the candidates" breakfast are on the agenda of the chamber of commerce board of directors meeting Wednesday at 8 a.m. at the chamber office.

Chairman Mal Millar will report on the membership drive and new members already registered during the steak or beans campaign.

Plans for the City Council candidates breakfast April 4 at the Rodeway Inn will be discussed.

No Charge Filed In Shot Claim

POMONA — No complaint has been filed against a young Pomona woman arrested Feb. 20 after another woman said the suspect fired a shot at her.

Ramona Lisa Wells, 18, of 9373 Mills Ave., Montclair, was not prosecuted in the incident which occurred outside 1814 S. Water St. Court records indicated the district attorney's office declined to file a complaint.

Drunk Driver Goes to Jail Weekends

POMONA — A Glendora man, who pleaded no contest to a charge in connection with an accident which injured two girls in Claremont Jan. 22, has been ordered to spend five weekends in jail.

Pomona Municipal Court Judge Norman L. Vroman also ordered Charles A. Rutherford, 50, to pay a fine of $400. Both were conditions of three years' probation.

Rutherford, 1624 Danehurst Ave., was charged with felonious drunken driving after the accident at Bonita and Mountain avenues in which his car collided with the car containing the girls.

Jewish Appeal Rally To Start Fund Drive

CLAREMONT — A "Keep the Promise" rally will launch the 1972 Pomona Valley United Jewish Appeal at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Taylor Hall.

Jews here, as throughout the world, will be asked to fulfill a 4,000-year-old pledge to protect one another from oppression and to care for one another in need.

In the Pomona Valley area they will be asked to double the $42,000 that was collected here last year.

Zev Yaroslavsky, chairman of the California Students for Soviet Jews, will be the keynote speaker. A program of ehtnic music, including the performance of an Israeli dance group, also will be featured.

The staging of a rally, appealing to all age groups, is an innovation by this year's UJA committee headed by Phil Kelber and Harry Schonfeld, cochairmen, and working in conjunction with the local Intercommunity Jewish Council. Up to now the UJA held fund-raising dinners.

No admission will be charged to the rally and no direct solicitations will be made. The general public is invited.

Money collected by the United Jewish Appeal will be used to help worthy Jewish causes in the United States and to support oppressed Jews abroad.

DR. RODERICK RICHARDSON

First To Head Such Agency in California

Psychologist takes Helm of Health Authority

POMONA — Dr. Roderick Richardson of Huntington Park will officially assume duties today as director of the Tri-City Mental Health Authority. He is believed to be the first psychologist to head such an agency in the state.

Richardson succeeds Dr. William E. Sigurdson, a psychiatrist, who resigned as director last Oct. 31.

The personnel office was unable to find a psychiatrist to fill the position and the state Legislature recently passed legislation permitting the appointment of a psychologist. The new law goes into effect today.

Because Tri-City will have a nonmedical director, under the law, the program chief's post is to be filled by a psychiatrist, according to Richardson.

He had been head of Tri-City in an acting capacity since November. Previous to the appointment, he was chief psychologist there.

Richardson was one of the psychologists called in by defense attorneys for Sirhan Beshara Sirhan, convicted of the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

He received his doctorate in clinical psychology from USC in 1962, a master's degree in psychology from San Jose State in 1952 and a bachelor's degree from San Jose in 1950.

While working for his Ph.D., he served an internship with the Veterans Administration in Brentwood.

For six years he was on the staff of the Hacker Psychiatric Clinic in Beverly Hills and Lynwood, was in private practice in Westchester for seven years, and has some concentration in diagnostic work.

Richardson, 45, worked with the California Adult Authority, the Youth Authority as a staff psychologist and as a parole officer in the Los Angeles area.

He and his wife, Eleanor, have four children, Douglas, 23; Frances, 22; Bryan, 18, and Deborah, 15.

Richardson will head a Tri-City staff of about 25 full and part time professional workers.

His appointment was approved by the City Council Feb. 22.

Too Many Beliefs Preconceived

Open Mind—That's the Miracle

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Some people believe in miracles, not merely as events that may have occurred long ago in Palestine, but as a live possibility here and now.

Others regard miracle stories as an embarrassing survival of primitive superstitution, a stumbling block to Christian faith in a scientific age.

Nearly everyone develops one attitude or the other by his late teens. Thereafter his mind tends to harden around his adopted attitude, automatically rejecting any contrary argument.

Observing this, the late C. S. Lewis concluded that it is not evidence, pro or con, but preconceptions which determine whether a person believes in miracles.

Lewis felt it was fruitless for Christians who believe in miracles to offer testimony or "evidence" to non-believers. Not even direct personal experience, he said, can convince a man who's already made up his mind that miracles cannot happen.

"Whatever experiences we may have, we shall not regard them as miraculous if we already hold a philosophy which excludes the supernatural," he said. "Any event which is claimed as a miracle is, in the last resort, an experience received from the senses; and the senses are not infallible. We can always say we have been the victims of an illusion. If we believe in the supernatural, this is what we always shall say.

"If the end of the world appeared in all the literal trappings of the apocalyptic vision of the Book of Revelation, if the modern materialist saw with his own eyes the heavens rolled up and the great white throne appearing, if he had the sensation of being himself hurled into the lake of fire, he would continue forever, in that lake itself, to regard his experience as an illusion, and to find the explanation of it in psychoanalysis or cerebral pathology."

In the same way, Lewis said, people whose faith is heavily mortgaged to belief in miraculous "guarantees" are preconditioned to imagine miracles where none have occurred, and often consider it a mark of piety to accept gullibly every miracle story that is spread abroad.

Neither of these extreme attitudes seemed reasonable to Lewis, the brilliant Oxford don who probably was the most persuasive advocate of mature Christian faith in this century.

As a thoroughgoing intellectual, Lewis accepted fully the findings of modern science and took for granted the "normal stability of nature." But he was also convinced that there is "a reality beyond nature."

When both of these beliefs are held at once, and only then, Lewis argued, a person "can approach with an open mind the various reports which claim that this super-or extra-natural reality has sometimes invaded and disturbed the sensuous content of space and time which makes our natural world".

If we take an open-minded look at the evidence, Lewis said, "we find that accounts of the supernatural meet us on every side."

"History is full of them—often in the same documents which we accept wherever they do not report miracles. Respectable missionaries report them not infrequently. Intimate conversation elicits from almost every acquaintance at least one episode in his life he would call 'queer'.

"No doubt most stories of miracles are unreliable... but then, so are most stories of all events. Each story must be taken on its merits. What one must not do is to rule out the supernatural as the one impossible explanation."

And that of course is just what a great many people today have done. They simply disbelieve, a priori, in the reality of any event—whether it be an ancient event such as the healing of a terminal cancer — which cannot be "explained" in naturalistic terms.

Thus they close their minds to the great truth which Shakespeare put into the mouth of Hamlet:

"There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

Lewis' discussion of miracles is one of the hitherto unpublished essays collected posthumously by his long-time friend and former personal secretary Walter Hooper, recently published in the United States by the William B. Erdmands Publishing Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., under the title, "God in the Dock." It is highly commended to all Lewis fans.

NASA Plans Cheaper Jupiter, Saturn Shots

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The Space Agency plans to replace four recently-cancelled "grand tour" spacecraft flights to all five outer planets with two smaller Mariner-class probes to Jupiter and Saturn in 1977.

The agency also is considering sending Pioneer-class spacecraft into orbit around Jupiter and Saturn later this decade.

Also in the planning stage is a series of flights of Pioneers to Venus starting in late 1976. These craft would orbit the cloud-shrouded planet and send probes into its dense, hot atmosphere.

None of these advanced missions is yet financed, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) hopes to begin to seek funds for them in its fiscal 1974 budget.

The grand tour project was cancelled in January because of budget restrictions. It would have sent a series of large, highly sophisticated spacecraft on flights past Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. One probe would fly by three different planets over a period of eight years, taking advantage of a rare planetary allignment.

Dr. John E. Naugle, associate NASA administrator for space science, told congress last week the proposed flights of mariners to Jupiter and Saturn would each cost less than $360 million. The grand tour of four missions had a $900 million price tag.

The spacecraft for the dual Jupiter-Saturn missions in 1977 would be based on the design of Mariner 9 which is now mapping Mars from orbit. Each will carry television cameras to flash back detailed pictures of both Jupiter and Saturn.

Each probe would fly close by Jupiter and then, with an accelerating assist by the great planet's powerful gravity, swing on to fly by Saturn, the ringed planet that is sixth out from the sun.

The Mariners would be launched by big Titan-Centaur rockets and reach Jupiter in 1 1-2 years and Saturn two years later. Naugle said the probes could fly close to Saturn's puzzling rings and very close to its big moon, Triton.

The Pioneer class spacecraft being considered for Jupiter and Saturn orbital missions late this decade would be based on the current Pioneer 10 Jupiter probe. They would carry out detailed radiation and atmospheric studies.

The Venus Pioneer missions would include both orbiters and craft to probe the Venusian atmosphere. A team of 13 scientists, including ones from France and Germany, has been selected by NASA to help plan the scientific aspects of the Venus flights.

NASA already is working on another Mariner spacecraft that will be launched toward Venus and then Mercury next year. That probe, however, will not orbit the planets. Instead it will radio back the first closeup pictures of the two inner planets.

Labor Dept. Gives Planning Aid to States

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Labor Department has announced planning grants totaling $978,725 to 15 states to help them in developing on-the-job safety and health programs.

George C. Guenther, assistant labor secretary for occupational health and safety, said Wednesday the awards brought the total of such grants to 5.68 million.

Guenther said Ohio and South Dakota are the only two states which have not received grants to help in preparing plans for state enforcement of standards under the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act.

The new grants for Western states included: Alaska, $157,130; California, $105,781; Hawaii, $112,330; Montana, $32,278; Nevada, $72,458; Washington, 47,569.

She Hid Mate's Draft Notices

DENVER, Colo. (UPI) — A young housewife who hid her husband's draft notices and told the Selective Service System he was in Alaska was placed on 60 days probation this week for violating federal draft laws.

U.S. District Judge Fred M. Winner granted probation to Lynne Marie Haller, 21, of Crested Butte, Colo. She could have been sentenced to five years in jail and fined $10,000 on each of two count.

No More Boots, Maxis

Former Beauty Queen To Don Nun's Habit

LONDON (UPI) — Christine Francis, Australia's former Miss Queensland, said she loves champagne and there have been plenty of boyfriends, but she is trading her knee-high leather boots and her fashionable maxicoat for a nun's habit.

"When I was 17 I wanted to be a nun," she said on arriving from Australia Thursday. "But I had to wait until I was sure. That time has now come."

Miss Francis, 23, a teacher who once was chosen Australia's "Girl in a Million" because of her grace, intelligence and charm, said she would enter the Roman Catholic Cistercian Order at Wimborne, Dorset, near the south coast of England.

"I love life and I love wine, especially champagne, but I don't anticipate hearing the corks pop any more," she said.

"I like male company too — there were plenty of boyfriends — but I'm happy to devote myself to God."

Miss Francis looked at her clothes — a red maxidress fur hat, knee-high leather boots, and a clinging white dress — and giggled.

"These are the only clothes I brought with me," the dark-haired beauty said. "I expect I shall give them away."

Brethren To Break Ground for School

LA VERNE — The First Brethren Church will conduct groundbreaking ceremonies Sunday at 9:45 a.m. for a $35,000 Sunday School building.

The Rev. Forest Lance and Bill White, Sunday school superintendent, will officiate at the ceremonies.

The new building will be dedicated in memory of Clyde Clifton, former church moderator. It will house church offices and eight classrooms of the Sunday school department.

Farrar Builders of Pomona expect to have the building completed in two months.

Mr. Lance will preach the second sermon in a Lenten series Sunday at 11 a.m. on the topic "I Will Raise Him Up at the Last Day."

His evening topic at 7 will be "Resisting the Spirit of God."

POMONA — A chili supper will be held Friday evening from 5:30 to 7:30 at the First Church of God to raise funds for special youth activities this summer.

Monies raised from the meal will partially pay expenses for local young people attending summer work camps in foreign countries with the Vacation Samaritans.

Funds will also help meet the expenses for a delegation of young people from the local church who will attend the International Youth Convention of the Church of God in Boston.

LA VERNE — Mr. and Mrs. Uldis Kruse will speak to the Los Hermanos class at the La Verne Church of the Brethren at 9:45 a.m. Sunday in the Social Hall.

Mrs. Kruse was one of 15 scholars who traveled in China for a month last summer under the sponsorship of the Committee for Concerned Asian Scholars.

Mrs. Kruse taught in the primary grades for several years in Hong Kong. She and her husband are traveling throughout the United States under the sponsorship of the committee and the American Friends Service Committee.

Nixon Trip Termed Pop Journalism

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two journalists who accompanied President Nixon to China said Wednesday television coverage of the trip was "pop journalism" and an extravaganza orchestrated by the Nixon administration.

The journalists, Hugh Sidey of Time-Life News Service and Peter Lisagor of the Chicago Daily News, said news coverage of the event—nearly half the journalists allowed to go were from television—was designed to entertain the American public and not to provide substantive news coverage.

Sidey said print journalists were "in strait jackets . . . unable to go where we wanted." While special transportation was assigned to television stars, Sidey said, print newsmen were assigned to White House arranged buses and could not hire taxis for their own use.

Lisagor said the president's trip "was designed to produce spectacular pictures—and it did . . . Designed to produce pop journalism—and it did. Substance was lost sight of. There was a gee-whiz attitude but not much happened."

The newsmen made their comments in a panel discussion produced by the Westinghouse Broadcoasting Co.

Arbitration Saves Year of Court Delay

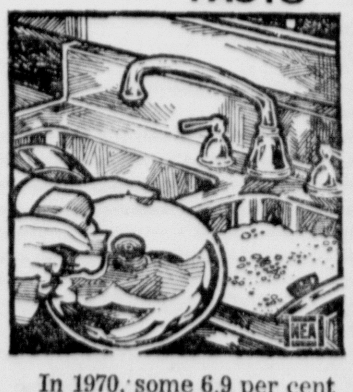
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The first case to be determined by San Francisco's new civil court arbitration process has been settled a year before it would have come to trial on the crowded court docket.

Presiding Superior Judge Byron Arnold said Attorney Harold A. Stone, acting as arbitrator in a lawsuit resulting from a traffic accident, had returned his ruling.

Stone recommended that bus driver Roy Hollie, who sought $7,500 damages from an accident between his bus and a car in 1970, be awarded $2,900 and costs.

Arnold said if the suit had been processed in the usual fashion and gone to trial before a jury, it would not have come to court before April of 1973.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS



In 1970, some 6.9 per cent (4.7 million) of the 67.6 million year-round housing units in the United States lacked basic plumbing facilities in contrast to 16.8 per cent lacking such facilities in 1960, The World Almanac says. These facilities include a flush toilet, a bathtub or shower for the exclusive use of the occupants of the housing unit and hot piped water.

Concert Set At Riverside

RIVERSIDE — Twelve UC Riverside students will present a concert featuring instruments of the Renaissance and Baroque periods in Life Sciences 1500 at the university at 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

The musicians, several of whom sing, will be costumed in the dress of the per od. Frederick Gable directs.

Instruments to be used are recorders, harpischord, viola da gamba, kummhorn, shawm, sackbut, racket and lute.

Admission is free.

DYNAMIC DUO — Organist Eleanor Rigby (that's her name) and 4-foot-11 Debi Pomeroy, drummer, are currently appearing at Griswold's Indian Hill. The two musicians have performed in hotels, night clubs and lounges throughout the United States.

Local Group Appearing In Downey

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Jode, a fast-rising young musical group composed of four local youths, is now appearing at the Spiral Staircase night club in Downey.

The group is composed of Jason and Omar Rivera, David Cimino and Erick Anderson, all of Rowland Heights.

Their record, "Jode," (Vanguard) is now on sale.

The four young man have had an exciting and successful year. When they appeared on the Don Steele Show, they were so well received they were invited back twice more. They performed with Elliot Mintz on Channel 52 several times, and are now making a film of their appearances.

Jode also performed at San Diego State College and on American Bandstand. It played at the recent wedding of Ram quarterback Roman Gabriel.

Sixteenth Street, Washington, D.C., is popularly called the "Avenue of Presidents."

Choir To Premiere Gail Kubik Work

CLAREMONT — The Concert Choir of Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd, Pitzer and Scripps colleges will present the world premiere of "Scholastica: A Medieval Set," a composition for a capella chorus by Scripps College Prof. Gail Kubik in Garrison Theater at 3:30 p.m. March 18. Kubik will conduct.

Commissioned by Claremont University Center to climax a day-long celebration of the group's highly successful seven-year fund-raising drive, the work will also be performed by the choir and its regular conductor, John Lilley, March 26 on the Queen Mary; March 28 in San Diego; March 30 in Tucson; March 31 in Phoenix, Ariz.; and again at Claremont April 23.

The text is based on a set of 13th Century songs translated by Quincy Howe Jr., a professor at Scripps College.

The opening section, "Semester's End" shows the energy and vitality of student life. The second section, "Alas, This World," is permeated with medieval man's preoccupation with the futility of the present and his hopes for a glorious afterlife.

An amusing dialogue between two medieval monks over an obscure theological point raised by the 13th century Scotch theologian, Duns Scotus, comprises section three, "Questions Trinitarian." "A Nun at Springtime," part four, expresses the piety and wonder at Nature.

The score concludes with "Gaudeamus Igitur," another lively student song. Its opening theme is that used by Brahms, in the "Academic Festival Overture," with which the Pomona College Symphony Orchestra will open the musical program.

The Choir, under Lilley, will also perform Brahms Opus 92, numbers 1-4, "O Schoene Nacht, "Spaetherbst," "Abenlied" and "Warum."

Musicians To Perform in Regional Bach Festival

COVINA — Seven Pomona Valley musicians will take part in the Regional Bach Festival sponsored by the Music Teachers' Association of California at the Covina First Presbyterian Church at 3 and 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

They were selected after performing at the Bach Festival at the Claremont Presbyterian Church last week. They will compete with musicians from the San Bernardino County, San Gabriel Valley, Redlands and Riverside County branches of the MTAC for the final event of the Southern California Junior Bach Festival this spring.

The Pomona Valley winners are Gretchen Wilson, a pupil of Ralph Pierce; Bruce Patterson and Peggy Losh, pupils of Helena Johnson; Patricia Minatoya, Gregg Martin and Alice Liskey, pupils of Yvonne Gordon, and Paul Baskett, a pupil of Barbara Middleton.

The judges were Miss Evelyn Hood, general chairman of the Southern California Junior Bach Festival; Andrew Clemmons of the Hollywood branch of MTAC; and Christopher Trussell, minister of music at Claremont Presbyterian Church.

The monthly meeting of the Pomona Valley branch of MTAC will be held on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Music Education Center, 435 E. Holt Blvd. Vera Miner, a private MTAC music teacher from San Bernardino, will survey the Robert Pace Method and will also talk about "Creative Piano." The public is invited to attend.

Certification of the yearly progress of pupils who are registered with the Music Teachers' Association of California will take place on March 12 at the Music Education Center in Pomona. This year, 69 pupils of private music teachers in the Pomona Valley will be evaluated.

Ever Since Eve

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) —A routine news release Thursday by the State Health Department on the problems of noise began this way: "Noise — in the sense of unwanted sound —has been a problem since Eve first poked Adam in the remaining ribs and told him to stop snoring."

Theater Offers 'Twelfth Night'

NEW YORK (UPI)—An eyefilling, spirited production of Shakespeare's romantic comedy, "Twelfth Night," opened Thursday at the Beaumont Theater as the season's third presentation of the Repertory Theater of Lincoln Center.

Ellis Rabb, who has handled many a classic, has staged the play with the proper touch to enhance its inherent gaiety, drawing a generally spirited performance from the cast.

From the physical standpoint —sets, costumes, lighting —this has to be the handsomest presentation yet by the Repertory Theater, which has never stinted in this department with any of its productions.

Douglas W. Schmidt, a Lincoln Center veteran, has outdone himself in providing settings that are beautiful, and Ann Roth, a newcomer to this theater, has devised some of the most gorgeous costumes the stage has seen in years. John Gleason's lighting is up to his usual high standard at this house.

The story of the male and female twins, Viola and Sebastian, separated in a shipwreck, each believing the other dead but winding up in Illyria where they eventually meet with their romantic fates with, respectively, the Duke of Illyria and the aristocratic Olivia, need not be detailed here at this late date.

However, it must be reported that Blythe Danner is a topnotch Viola, who masquerades as a male page in the duke's service, and that Martha Henry is a captivating Olivia.

Much of "Twelfth Night" is devoted to the drunkenly funny antics of Sir Toby Belch, their horseplay, Malvolio, the strict and egocentric steward Olivia's uncle, and Sir Andrew Aguecheek, a silly nobleman whom Sir Toby is trying to promote as a husband for his niece.

These roles are in the able hands of Sydney Walker as Sir Toby and Leonard Frey as Aguecheek. The target of of Olivia's household, is extremely well played by Rene Auberjonois. There also is a fine performance by George Pentecost as Feste, Olivia's jester.

Others in prominent roles are Moses Gunn, Cynthia Belgrave, Philip Bosco, and Stephen McHattie.

The lilting text is well spoken much of the time, and the production generally is a pleasing one that accomplishes what it is supposed to do — provide some fun.

Sportsman 250, Qualifying on Tap Today

By DAVE DANIEL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — The folks at Ontario Motor Speedway have been using Ralph Williams, the famous used-car salesman of television fame, to promote Sunday's running of the Miller 500 NASCAR race.

If things go as expected, Williams may have to take over the public address system at the track today. Only his rapid-fire delivery will be able to keep up the pace with today's program.

First, at 10 a.m., the final 11 cars of the 51-car field will qualify for Sunday's race.

As soon as that's over, 40 cars take the grid for the 1 p.m. running of the Sportsman 250 race for late model (1961-69) stock cars.

Admission price today is set at $6, which includes both the final qualifying and the 250 race.

Heading the field is Sonny Easley, who won the pole last Saturday in a 1968 Ford at 142.560 mph and defending champion George Follmer, the 10th-fastest qualifier this year who defeated Easley by less than a foot in last year's race.

Follmer was billed as the top driver with a chance to win both today's 250-mile race and Sunday's 500 miler, but he hasn't even attempted to qualify for the Miller event after the first two days.

That means he'll have to hustle to make one of the final 11 spots this morning if he's even to make the more prestigious Grand National field for Sunday.

The second group of 20 cars qualified Saturday, bringing the field to 40 so far, but no one touched defending champion A. J. Foyt's pole-winning speed of 153.217 set Friday.

Biggest threat of the day was Don White of Keokuk, Iowa, who sped to a 149.251 mph effort, easily the fastest time of the day. If White, the USAC stock car champion in 1963 and 1966, had driven Friday, he would have qualified on the outside of the second row as his speed is the sixth fastest so far.

Friday's Qualifiers, A-9

The second fastest qualifier Saturday was a surprise in Cowboy singer Marty Robbins, who toured the course at an average speed of 143.960, the 14th-fastest of the 40.

Robbins spun out Wednesday and wrecked his 1972 Dodge Thursday during practice and his crew did a remarkable job of rebuilding the right side of the sleek purple and yellow racer.

"I'm pleased with my time," Robbins said, "but I think I could have gotten a couple more miles per hour out of it. After what happened Thursday, we didn't want to push it too hard in the turns.

"I have all the faith in the world in my crew. I never doubted they would get it back together," he added.

The slowest qualifier so far is Bill Butts of El Cajon in a 1972 Dodge at 136.355 mph, but if the final 11 cars today hold to form, Sunday's field will be faster than last year's inaugural event when the slowest car, driven by Bob England, was in at 132.358 mph.

Besides White and Robbins, 11 other cars tourned the course faster than Friday's 20th qualifier, G. T. Tallas, who turned in a 139.234 effort.

Nine of the 11 cars were over the 140 mph mark, with southern NASCAR greats Elmo Langley and James Hylton, both in 1971 Fords, among them.

One of the cars that the crowd had its eyes on was the 1970 Plymouth of Gene Romero, who, along with Mark Donohue, is making his first NASCAR start.

Donohue, of course, has been a champion USAC and sports car driver for a long time, but Romero is stepping up from the motorcycle ranks.

The San Luis Obispo driver won the American Motorcycle Association's national championship in 1970 and was the runnerup in 1971. He's trying to follow in the footsteps of Joe Leonard, another former AMA national champ that has had great success in auto racing, including the last two Indianapolis 500 wins.

"I'm not happy with my time," Romero said. "If the car had more oats, I feel like I could have gotten up to around 145. I'd like to drive more stock car races when they don't conflict with my bike schedule. I think maybe I'll race cars full time next year."

Donohue is trying to make it on the NASCAR circuit in the only American Motors car in the race, a Matador.

Sunday's 500 is the richest stop of 32-NASCAR Grand National races this year, with more than $200,000 in prize money offered.

Some 80,000 spectators are expected to be on hand Sunday, according to OMS public-ity director Brian Tracy, who also spiked any rumors of the race being cancelled because of a threatened lawsuit against NASCAR by the Firestone Tire Co.

"There's no truth whatsoever to that report," Tracy said. Firestone had reported been chastised by NASCAR officials over the tires they had on hand at the track.

"It was all a mistake," Tracy said. "One phone call took care of it. There's no lawsuit planned by anyone and the race will go off as scheduled."

End of rumor.

THOMAS TALKS

Dallas Star Grants Interview

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboy running back Duane Thomas broke his public silence Friday to say he was not addicted to drugs and that he held no animosity for Cowboy coach Tom Landry.

Thomas consented to an interview by Dallas Television station WFAA newsman Gene McIntyre.

The hour-long discussion was often rambling and often hard to follow, but throughout Thomas' theme was the thought that he was just like anybody else—trying to do his best and seeking the most privacy possible.

"Hey, man, I'm you," Thomas said in one of his frequent trips into the esoteric. "I'm the same as you are. I try to relate to you."

Thomas declined to discuss in detail his recent arrest and guilty plea on a charge of marijuana possession in Greenville, Tex.

The interview was filmed in Thomas' home, and included a brief glimpse of Thomas' two children—a daughter and son. Thomas said he tried to shield his family from the public eye.

"When they asked me up in Greenville (after his arrest) if I was married," said Thomas, "I told them no, because I didn't want my family to be involved."

Thomas was asked about his calling Landry a "plastic man" at a news conference last year, and whether he still felt bitter toward the head coach.

"I have no animosity toward him whatsoever," Thomas said. "It was obvious that I didn't because I could not have performed as well as I did. It was obvious how I felt. Let bygones be bygones, and I resorted to what I knew best— playing football."

Thomas did not answer directly when asked why he declined to talk to the press last season, but did say, "I'm talking when I run. I have freedom and I have a free flow of expression. I have dedication toward playing."

He said he didn't think he ought to be fined by the Cowboys, although admitted, "I'm fully qualified to talk about that subject," and defended his attempts to remain incognito on Cowboy road trips.

Some of the exchange included:

Q—"Do you think a $500 fine is justified if you lose your playbook?"

A—"Hey, man, I don't think any fine is justified if it is me being fined."

A—"Well, if it was one of your teammates being fined—Joe Blow—would you think it was justified."

A—"Well, you will have to ask Joe Blow."

Thomas became well known for his attempts to cover his identity by wearing a long stocking cap.

"I've done my job. It doesn't make any difference what I wear," he said. "I wasn't paid to be a model, anyway. I was being paid to play football. You should not judge anybody by what they wear. You should not tell me what I should wear. I'm going to wear what I want to wear."

McIntyre asked Thomas directly if he was guilty of possessing marijuana.

"Due to the status of the case I cannot go into the ramifications of it," Thomas said.

"Are you addicted to drugs?"

"No."

"Do you think the Cowboys' players' attitude to you has changed since this incident?"

"I don't want to go into that now. I'm still doing some thinking about that now."

Mounties Take 24th Win in Row

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College opened defense of its South Coast Conference dual meet track championship Friday with a 92-53 win over visiting San Diego Mesa.

Paced by Doug Todd's lifetime bests in three events, coach Don Ruh's Mounties extended their undefeated string to 24 meets in a row. MSAC hasn't lost a dual meet since 1968.

Todd won the long jump 24-4½, the best mark in Southern California this year and the 440 intermediate hurdles at 53.0, the best mark in the state.

Mario Lobato won the high hurdles in 14.7, his personal best, and Todd finished second in 14.9, another personal best.

Other personal bests were turned in by Louis Meliia (4:22.5 mile) and Dick Lankhaar (1:57.0 half mile).

Mesa's Vince Breddell won both sprints with a 9.6 wind aided 100-yard mark.

The Mounties travel to Santa Ana College next Friday to face one of the conference favorites in the Dons, who were upset by Fullerton, 63, Friday.

In the Mission Conference coach Charles Hicks' Chaffey College team opened its schedule with an 84-60 win over Riverside.

The Panthers got double wins from Lauren Pompa in the shot put and discus and Keith Goldie in the long jump and triple jump.

BRUINS WIN SIXTH STRAIGHT PAC-8 TITLE

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Top-ranked UCLA overcame a case of fatigue early in the second half to roll to its 24th straight win 85-71 over California Friday night in the Pacific-8 Conference.

The unbeaten Bruins appeared to have the game well in hand at intermission with a 44-33 lead. But they tired in the second half and Cal closed to 51-48 with 14 1-2 minutes left on the keyhole popping of Ansley Truitt and Bill Duwe.

Then UCLA went on a 7-1 spurt in the next three minutes to improve its Pac-8 record to 13-0. Larry Farmer scored six of his 16 points in that spree which upped the Bruin lead to 58-49. Closest the Bears got after that was 60-54.

"The team was tired early in the second half but it was nice to see them come back," said UCLA coach John Wooden. "They're young and need a rest, so I'll give them a couple of days off next week."

UCLA, which has already clinched its sixth straight Pacific-8 basketball championship, closes out its regular season at Stanford Saturday night.

Wooden said "this was our toughest game. No team has closed to three points on us in the second half."

Sophomore center Bill Walton again led the Bruins with 24 points while Keith Wilkes chipped in with 18.

Duwe topped Cal with 19 points and John Coughran added 18.

L.A. Rips Atlanta, 114-104

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Gail Goodrich and Jerry West supplied the punch with 61 points between them while Happy Hairston pulled down a season high 25 rebounds Friday night to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 114-104 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

The Lakers led from start to finish. Atlanta closed the gap to three points with seven minutes remaining, but the Lakers hit three goals in a row and outscored the Hawks 16-6 for the next three minutes to wrap the game up.

Goodrich paced all scorers with 33 points, 20 in the first half. West had only 10 points in the opening two periods but finished strong with a total of 28. Jim McMillian added 20 for Los Angeles.

Center Walt Bellamy, though having several shots blocked by Wilt Chamberlain, keyed the Hawks offense with 21 points. The Lakers defense held high scorers Lou Hudson and Pete Maravich to three points between them the first half. But Don Adams also scored 21.

The triumph improved the Lakers mark to 59-11 in their record-shattering year.

By reeling off 11 unanswered points, the Lakers were able to expand an early 11-6 lead into a 22-6 runaway with five minutes left in the opening period. Hairston, who has been averaging 15 rebounds over the last dozen games, brought down 11 in the first period alone to help his team build up a 30-18 advantage.

The Hawks got within four with three minutes left in the opening half, but Los Angeles regrouped to go ahead 55-46 at the intermission.

West took over in the third period by hitting seven of nine field goal attempts as the Lakers increased their edge to 85-74.

TROY HOLDS OFF STANFORD SURGE

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—USC held off a late surge by Stanford Friday night to take a 71-65 victory in the Pac-8 Conference.

The Trojans, who built up a 17-point lead halfway through the second half, watched Stanford score 16 points to cut the margin to 62-59 with 1:10 to play. A pair of free throws by Dan Anderson and another basket by Heublin clinched the victory for USC.

Stanford played most of the game without all-time scoring leader Claude Terry who was poked in the right eye in the game and did not return to action until 14 minutes remained.

Joe Mackey was high for USC with 20 points, 18 of them in the first half. Riley added 13 points as four Trojans hit in double figures.

Dave Frost was high for Stanford with 14 points, and Terry finished with 12 despite his limited activity.

The victory gave USC a 9-3 record in conference play while Stanford slipped to 5-8.

Stags, Westmont Tangle

By DAVE DANIEL
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — There's only one bad thing about a basketball team making the playoffs.

The good feeling a team carries into them has a way of coming to an abrupt halt.

Coach Ted Ducey and his Claremont-Mudd Stags hope to keep their good feeling tonight when they face Westmont College of Santa Barbara in a semifinal game for the championship of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District III.

The Stags, the fourth-seeded team in the playoffs, tackle the No. 1 seeded Warriors at 8 p.m. at neutral court Occidental College in Eagle Rock.

Monday night, the Nos. 2 and 3 seeds, Biola and Azusa Pacific, meet at Oxy in the other semifinal game. Tonight's winner will face Monday night's winner on Wednesday night in the Oxy gym with the champion continuing its season in Kansas City for the 32-team NAIA national championship tourney.

But before a team can make reservations for the midwestern classic, it has to get through the district playoffs. One loss and its over.

The Stags, with four seniors and a junior in the starting lineup, have the most experienced team in the playoffs.

Ducey's team is led by 6-6 senior forward Rex Huxford, the Pomona Valley player of the year and a first team All-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and All-District selection.

Flanking Huxford is 6-7 center John McKniff, the leading rebounder in Stag history, and 6-4 junior forward Craig Ducey.

Backcourt chores for the Stags are handled by 5-7 Dave Wells, a second-team choice All-District, and Jeff Naslund.

Every Stag except Wells is averaging in double figures, led by Huxord's 21.3 mark, which won him the scoring title of the SCIAC for the second time in four years.

Both the Stags and the Warriors have identical 16-8 records. But while CMC finished strongly, compiling 10 wins in 12 league games, Westmont has been just the reverse.

The Warriors won their first 10 games of the season and the then proceeded to lose four of the next five when coach Tom Byron was taken ill. He died midway through the season.

The Warriors are led by All-District center Fred DeVaughn and forward Andrew Hill, another All-District choice.

Scots, Cavs in Chaffey Finals

By JIM RHODE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO-UPLAND — Chaffey High will play an unfamiliar role in its annual baseball tournament.

The Tigers, winners of the tourney the last three years, will be spectators rather than participants in this year's finals. Coach Jim Semon's crew, the No. 1 seeded team in the tourney, lost to both Upland and Montclair by identical 7-1 counts Friday to be eliminated from the four-day extravaganza.

Friday's Scores
Upland 7, Chaffey 1
Chino 9, Claremont 2
Montclair 10, Pomona 3
Upland 5, Chino 3
Montclair 7, Chaffey 1

Today's Game(s)
Montclair vs. Upland at John Galvin Park, 2 p.m. (Second game at John Galvin Park at 7 p.m. only if Montclair wins.)

Thus, the finalists in this season's tourney will be the Highlanders (6-1 on the season) and the Cavaliers (3-1). The first game of a possible two between these San Antonio League rivals will be at John Galvin Park, starting at 2 p.m.

Should Montclair (which lost to Upland 11-3 in the first round) win, then a second game, which would begin at 7 p.m. at Galvin, would be necessary to decide the championship.

The Highlanders beat both Chaffey and Chino (5-3) to advance to the finals. And Scot coach Herb Christian did it without using his ace southpaw, Gary Waldron.

Bob Self and Brian McLaughlin turned in excellent pitching performances in their first varsity starts to pace the Highlanders.

Self, throwing primarily off-speed pitches, scattered seven hits and allowed the Tigers just one run in seven innings of work. He was also the contest's leading hitter, collecting two singles in three trips to the plate.

McLaughlin was breezing with a four-hitter through six innings before weakening in the seventh when Chino got two men on with one out. Catcher Steve Tarbell took the mound at this point and got two batters to ground out, after balking in one run, to end the threat.

First baseman Dave Hill blasted a pair of triples which accounted for two runs to pace the Upland batting attack in the second game.

Montclair whipped Pomona in its Friday opener 10-3, despite the efforts of Devil catcher Jeff Corkill, who collected a single, triple, and home run and knocked in all three runs.

Bunts Help Broncs Win

Special to the P-B

SAN LUIS OBISPO — The old squeeze bunt is alive and well and being employed by Cal Poly Pomona's John Scolinos.

The veteran Bronco skipper used it on successive plays Friday as Cal Poly clobbered Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, 9-3.

A little more of the same wouldn't hurt today. The Broncs and Mustangs play a doubleheader beginning at noon.

The two Cal Polys are tied for second place in the California Collegiate Athletic Association baseball race with 3-1 records. Unbeaten Valley State (6-0) is the leader.

In Friday's game, Dave Wiendke singled in a run and then Nick Lusic and pitcher Roger Fechner squeezed home two more. The Broncs were leading 6-0 before SLO scored three in the seventh. However, Bruce Dobis' two-run single in the ninth during a three-run rally cinched the win for Pomona.

Coast Stops MSAC In SCC Opener

Mt. San Antonio College was on the short end of a 7-5 decision to Orange Coast Friday in the first South Coast Conference game of the season for both teams.

The Mounties will host Orange Coast today at 1:30 in the second game of the series.

Elsewhere in junior college baseball Friday, Citrus nipped Pasadena, 1-0 for its fourth victory against eight losses.

Into today's game the Mounties are 4-3 overall, and 0-1 in conference after the loss Friday to the Pirates.

Three errors and four walks in the sixth inning was MSAC's undoing. The Bucs scored six runs.

Manny Estrada stroked three hits, including two doubles for the Mounties in a 10-hit attack. He's batting over .500 for the year.

Citrus scored its lone run in the seventh inning as Chuck Van Schoick singled, stole second and advanced to third on a ground out. Jim Sherman, the Owls catcher, singled him home.

Righthander Rick Lysander was credited with the victory, his second in five decisions.

The Owls return to action in the Mission Conference opener Tuesday at Riverside.

Grabarkewitz Off To A Good Start

By United Press International

MAURY WILLS and Mike Strahler arrived in Vero Beach, Fla., Friday to complete the Dodgers 40-man spring roster. Wills, who was signed for $100,000 last week, was given permission to report late. Strahler, for some unknown reason, was a holdout before finally relenting to general manager Al Campanis. The Danny Ozark's defeated the Roy Hartsfield's, 3-0, in the intra-squad game, but the most encouraging news came in the person of Billy Grabarkewitz, who singled twice and showed no ill effects in throwing from third to first base.

MICKEY RIVERS, the exciting rookie of last summer who did a fine job replacing Alex Johnson, still hasn't showed up in Holtville, current residence of the Anaheim Angels. Neither has Leo Cardenas, but at least Cardenas is under contract.

HENRI DUVILLARD and Jean-Noel Augert of France are 1-2 in the World Cup Men's Point Race but Gustavo Thoeni of Italy is the man to beat today in the slalom as Heavenly Valley winds up its cup series in South Lake Tahoe. Augert came to Heavenly Valley the leader with 114 points but after two runs of the giant slalom Thursday he still had 114 points while Duvillard, his Olympic teammate, zoomed into the lead by finishing second. Duvillard has 117 points, augert 114 and Thoeni 107.

ROSEMARY CASALS of San Francisco and Wendy Overton of Chevy Chase, Md., reached the semifinals Friday of the $15,000 K-Mart Invitational Women's Tennis Tourney. Miss Casals defeated Julie Heldman of Houston, 2-6, 6-4, 6-0, and Miss Overton beat Betty Stove of the Netherlands, 6-4, 6-4.

ILIE NASTASE and Ion Tiriac of Romania beat an American duo of Cliff Richey and Tom Edlefsen, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, Friday to gain the doubles final of the $35,000 World Indoor Tennis Championship in Hampton, Va. They will meet Americans Jim Connors and Tom Gorman, who beat Spaniards Andres Gimeno and Manuel Orantes, 6-4, 7-6, in the other semifinal doubles match.

Giants Shut Out By Spartans, 2-0

By MIKE DAOUSSIS
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — Damien High fell back on the outstanding pitching of Tom Beeson to shut out Ganesha High at Ralph Welch Park Friday, 2-0.

Beeson was not the only pitcher who put in an outstanding performance. Ganesh's Roger Slayton threw a four-hitter in a losing effort for the Gaints.

Slayton ran into control problems right off the bat as he walked the first two batters of the game. After a meeting on the mound though, the right handed junior processded to get the next three batters out to save the inning.

Ganesha was also unlucky when it came to bat. The Giants were stymied for only one hit in the first three innings by Beeson. Damien was also limited to only one hit in the same span.

In the fourth inning Damien finally broke the ice. With two out and nobody on base, Damien shortstop Ray Pekarcik walked as did the next batter, Gerard Piccioni. Catcher Brian O'Niel then came through with a single to score Pekarcik.

In Ganesha's part of the fourth the Gaints were able to get two hits with only one out by Tony Battaglia and Bob Baxter, but still failed to score.

Ganesha again threatened to score in the fifth when the Giants managed to put runners on second and third. Battaglia, then hit a shot to right field which was caught on the fly to end the inning.

Ganesha put together another rally in the sixth and it appeared for one moment that the Giants had tied the ball game.

Lee Leads Doral by One

MIAMI (UPI)—Lee Trevino shot a 69 Friday to take the second round lead in the $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open golf tournament but just one shot back were two old pros—Sam Snead and Paul Harney.

Trevino's 3-under-par round put him at 138 for the tournament, six under par. The amazing 59-year-old Snead shot a 4-under-par 68 and Harney was three under at 69 for their 139 totals.

Three golfers—Ken Still, Bob Rosburg and Jerry McGee— were another stroke back at 140 at the half-way mark of the tournament over the par 72, 7,028-yard Doral "Blue Monster" course.

Jack Nicklaus stayed within range, shooting his second straight 71 for a 142, four strokes off the pace. South African Gary Player shot a 71 for a 143.

Trevino said he is still having trouble with his putting and is hitting about 400 practice putts a day trying to get it in shape.

He made his move early with a two-putt birdie four on the first hole, faded to even par on the fourth hole with a bogey when he hit a sand trap but then sank 20 and five-foot birdie putts on the seventh and eighth holes.

His longest putt of the day was a 35-footer for a birdie on the 11th and he scored two more birds on the back nine. Trevino had a pair of bogeys, including the 18th hole, "I hit a bad chip and I chose the wrong club."

"I am playing from tee to green as well as anyone," he said, "but I came into the tournament not putting well and these slow greens here are not going to help."

Snead said he relied more on knowledge and experience for his 68. "I'm using all my experience and it's paying off more than any ability I might still have," Snead said.

Snead is still having putting problems but his unusual stance facing the cup paid off with 16 two-putt greens and only one three-putt.

"When I don't have more than one or two three-putts, I feel like Houdini," said Snead, who last won a tour event in 1967 when he took the Greater Greensboro Open.

Snead had one birdie on his front nine, but matched four birdies against one bogey on the back side. He sank two birdie putts of 10 feet and one of 15 feet.

Harney played steadily throughout the day for his 69, his longest birdie coming on the par-four 16th when he canned a 25-footer.

The 42-year-old winner of this year's Andy Williams San Diego Open said he "played well both days and I'm driving especially well."

Track Potpourri for Collegians

Name any type of track meet you wish — dual, triangular, quadruple or massive relays — and a Pomona Valley team is entered in one today.

Pomona hosts Caltech in a Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference dual meet at 1 p.m., La Verne and powerful Occidental are at Claremont-Mudd for a triangular SCIAC meet; Azusa Pacific travels to UC Irvine to meet the host Anteaters along with Chapman and Westmont; and Cal Poly heads to the Coliseum this morning to take part in the Long Beach Relays.

Coach Ron Alice's Broncos are the early risers in the Long Beach Relays, with the first event getting under way at 9 a.m.

The college and junior college portions of the relays are a prelude to the Champions meet, which gets underway at 1 p.m. One admission ticket is good for both meets.

"I think we are going in the right direction," Alice commented of his young but spirited team. "We have had several outstanding individual performances this season plus our relay teams have been impressive."

Allice will enter a full team at the Relays. The Broncos are in College Division II along with teams from Cal State Fullerton, Biola, Fresno Pacific, Northern Arizona and the Athletes in Action.

Mt. San Antonio College is one of 25 teams entered in the junior college portion, which will be run in conjunction with the rest of the meet.

Coach Vince Reel, whose Claremont-Mudd team opened the season with a win over Caltech last week, tried to get his meet with La Verne and Oxy switched to Friday, but with little luck.

"We didn't want to conflict with the Champions Meet in the Coliseum," Reel said, "but we couldn't have the track ready by Friday and there was also a problem with the officials."

Occidental, which hasn't lost an SCIAC championship in 27 years, is favored. The Tigers have good depth in nearly every event, as usual.

Pomona College coach Pat Murphy hopes to get off to a good start against Caltech, because the Hens meet Oxy next week.

Last week, the Hens won a triangular meet over Foothill and Sacramento junior colleges. "We're coming along," Mulcahy said. "We still have a lot of work to do to get ready for Oxy, to be even close against them, everybody must come through."

Azusa Pacific finished in the middle of a triangular meet against UC Riverside and Nevada-Las Vegas last week. The Cougar hopes rest on Jerry Newman, who won four events last week.

Races Von Ruden

Ryun Makes Outdoor Debut At Champions Meet Today

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Even though Marty Liquori won't be here for the Champions Meet today, the other two men who represented the United States in the 1,500-meter run at the Mexico City Olympics in 1968 will.

In the inaugural competition over the Coliseum's new $180,000 Tartan track, world record holder Jim Ryun of Kansas makes his Olympic year outdoor debut against Tom Von Ruden, a graduate student at Oklahoma State.

With Luquori sidelined indefinitely with an ailing left foot, Ryun and Von Ruden are America's top threats for the 1,500-meters at the Munich Olympics in September.

Ryun got a silver medal in Mexico four years ago while Von Ruden finished ninth but the Kansas Flyer could be considered the underdog following the indoor season.

Von Ruden had the fastest indoor mile — 3:57.9 at Fort Worth, Tex. — while Ryun was a badly beaten sixth in 4:13.2 in his third and last indoor appearance at Los Angeles.

Two nonmilers, former Wisconsin half-miler Mark Winzenried and American two-mile record holder George Young, have been added to the mile field that includes John Lawson of the Pacific Coast Club, Leonard Hilton of Houston and Bob Messina of San Diego.

The 34-year-old Young, now a school teacher at Casa Grande, Ariz., is seeking to make his fourth straight U.S. Olympic team.

While the mile is the feature event, the pole vault could produce a world record., Or at least the second 18-foot pole vault in history.

Sweden's Kjell Isaksson is entered and last weekend he set a world indoor mark of 17-10 1-2 at the National AAU indoor championships in New York.

"I'm not afraid of it," Isaksson said when asked about 18 feet. "If the wind is good, I have a chance."

His competition will include countryman Hans Lagerqvist, who cleared 17-4 at New York, and Americans Bob Seagren and Dick Railsback. Seagren won the event at Mexico City.

Greece's Chris Papanicolaou is the world record holder at 180 1-4.

Al Feuerbach, who upped his world indoor shot put record to 69-4 3-4 this winter, will face giant Texan Randy Matson in his outdoor debut of 1972.

Feuerbach handled Matson, the 1968 Olympic gold medalist, on the indoor trail but said he had something to prove.

"I'll be out to prove I'm not just an indoor thrower," he remarked.

Last year Feuerbach set an indoor mark of 68-11 but never approached that mark outdoors.

The 120-yard high hurdles matches Rod Milburn, 1971 track athlete of the year, and defending Olympic champion Willie Davenport while Ralph Mann, would record holder in the 440 intermediate hurdles, is favored in his specialty.

MANTA LEADS TOP FIELD

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — A topflight field of 12 fillies and mares headed by defending champion Manta will battle it out for the richest distaff purse in the west today when they meet in the $100,000 Santa Margarita Handicap at Santa Anita.

Manta, which staged a wire-to-wire win the 1⅛ mile Santa Margarita last year, faces a more difficult task this time after overcoming a leg injury suffered early in the meeting.

The two top challengers to the champion are Turkish Trousers, a 4-year-old which was the nation's top filly last year, and the stretch-running Typecast which did not win a stakes until she was five.

Manta carries top weight of 127 pounds, two more than Turkish Trousers and three more than Typecast.

Although the race was being hailed as a battle among the top three, there were a number of other strong contenders. Florida invader Sea Saga with Jore Velasquez at 119 pounds, Street Dancer at 120 and Convenience at 118 all were well regarded threats.

The rest of the field with weights scaling down to 109 pounds was made up of Balcony's Babe, Night Staker, Gala Occasion, Minstrel Miss, Gowran Green and Last Of The Line.

Manta has won 10 stakes during her career and frequently raced against male horses. The 6-year-old mare, however, was out of action for nearly two months and returned to the races only last Tuesday when she was out of the money in a grass sprint.

Turkish Trousers, after winning eight straight stakes as a 3-year-old, was beaten by both Typecast and Convenience this year before finally capturing the Santa Maria Handicap.

Typecast found herself last year when she scored her first stakes win at Santa Anita and has improved steadily since then.

Howard Grant rides Manta while Laffit Pincay Jr. handles Typecast with new stakes-riding champion Bill Shoemaker aboard Turkish Trousers. Other riding assignments put Earlie Fires on Convenience, Bobby Ussery on Balconys Babe, Fernando Toro on Street Dancer and Don Pierce on Last Of The Line.

Bruin Tracksters Host Arizona St.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA's defending NCAA track and field championship team meets the Arizona State Sun Devils Saturday morning in a dual meet on the Bruins campus.

The meet was changed from 1:15 p.m. to 10:30 a.m. in order not to conflict with the Champions Meet at the Los Angeles Coliseum and to permit track followers to take in both meets.

The Bruins and Sun Devils are meeting for the seventh time in track with UCLA holding a 5-1 edge in the series. UCLA, which scored an easy win over Cal State Long Beach, last week, was favored to defeat Arizona State.

The Sun Devils, however, were given an edge in several events. Dwight Bennett had the best mark in the javelin while Mark Raffety's time in the mile was comparable to the best UCLA marks.

In the sprints, Arizona State has two outstanding performers in John Koeppen and Alonzo Emery who both have been timed in 9.6 for the 100 yards.

UCLA, however, had top performers in virtually every event and the meet marks the seasonal debut of Warren Edmonson in the sprints.

Kings Begin Final Long Road Trip

TORONTO — The Los Angeles Kings begin their final extended road trip of the season, three games in four days tonight facing the Toronto Maple Leafs.

On Sunday the Kings move onto Boston and then round out the trip in St. Louis, Tuesday night. All three games will be broadcast over KFI (640), The Boston game will also be televised on KTLA (channel 5).

Toronto is 2-1-1 against the Kings this year, 1-0-1 in Maple Leaf Gardens. In their last meeting there, the two teams tied, 1-1.

The leafs are currently battling Detroit for a playoff spot in the NHL Eastern Division. Coach John McLellan has been sent to Florida to recuperate from stomach problems and King Clancy has been handling the coaching duties in his absence.

Toronto hasn't lost to the Kings at home since December 28, 1969, 5-1, but in the last game needed a fluke goal in the final four minutes to salvage a tie.

Boston has a 3-0-1 bulge over the Kings this season. There is one consolation for the Kings. The tie came in Boston Gardens, the Kings first point in the Gardens since a 3-1 win on December 10, 1967.

The Kings have had much more success in holding down Phil Esposito this season than last. In 1970-71, Esposito had 11 goals against the Kings, his best against any club. With two games to play this year, he has only three.

St. Louis is 3-2 against the Kings this year, but the two clubs have split two games in St. Louis. Two of the three St. Louis victories came in Los Angeles within two weeks, 3-1 and 2-0.

Middies Hire Assistant Coach

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—Tom Harp, former head coach at Cornell and Duke and former assistant coach at Army, Friday was named as an assistant football coach at the U. S. Naval Academy.

Head Coach Rick Forzano has not yet decided exactly what duties Harp will handle, according to a team spokesman. Harp replaces Ed Ferkany who has gone to Ohio State.

Harp was an assistant at Army from 1956-60. He was head coach at Cornell from 1961-65. His teams had a record of 19-23-3.

Harp's Duke teams had a record of 22-28-1 while he was head coach from 1966-70. He has been out of football since 1970.

Stanford Eyes Nickname

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Nicknames, like taxes, are hard to shake, but at Stanford they are going to try to forget the school's athletic teams ever were known as the Indians.

The Stanford Student Senate conducted a vote Thursday night and by a vote of 18-4 it was decided to drop the Indian nickname and symbol.

Stanford teams were first named the Indians back in 1930 —the same year the school officially adopted the Indian as its symbol. However, in deference to protests by Indian groups, who claimed the name held them in ridicule, the emblem, symbol and name are going into mothballs, never to be used again on the Stanford campus.

As quickly as it was decided to drop the symbol, campus wags initiated new names. However, a school spokesman said it may be some time before a new nickname is picked, probably through a school-wide contest.

University president Richard W. Lyman said student Indian groups don't want the "somewhat commercialized and always somewhat fake representation" of the Indian tradition.

Lyman, noted, however, that at least one group of Indians — from the Klamath River-Yurok tribe —urged the school to retain its Indian mascot.

New Expose Links Drug, Birth Defect

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — The doctor who discovered the devastating effects of thalidomide in 1960 said Friday he has discovered an internationally marketed drug potentially more severe.

Dr. William McBride said the drug, an antidepressant called imipramine, may cause babies to be born without arms.

"We have found three cases in Sydney of children born without arms in which it can be proved definitely that the mothers had taken imipramine in early pregnancy," the gynacologist said.

Like thalidomide, which also causes birth defects, imipramine affects the patient's nervous system.

"They destroy the nerve cells that supply limbs. Once you destroy these, the limbs will not develop," McBride said.

Imipramine—which comes as an orange tablet—is manufactured by seven companies and marketed under 30 brand names, he said.

It is prescribed for women suffering from fits of crying, fatigue, sleeplessness and headaches.

McBride said he feared imipramine may have been prescribed through the world and he has alerted both Australian and world health authorities to the dangers of the drug.

McBride said the manufacturers warned against the drugs during pregnancy, but the message was on a small piece of paper inside the box containing the tablets. He said it should be on the bottle itself.

"They state that clinical observations have not, with complete certainty, exluded the possibility that development of the human fetus may be influenced," he said.

"Unfortunately, women do not know they are pregnant until the 14th day after fertilization, at the earliest. And it may not be until the 21st or 28th day before the pregnancy is confirmed, even later.

"The limb buds of an unborn child develop from 35th day.

"It is very easy for a woman, particularly one suffering from a depressive state—as this is the indication for use of the drug—to ingest imipramine at the critical time of limb development."

Boat Crash Damages Denied

A Kiss Is Just a Kiss, A Sigh Is -- Suit Loss

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A Superior Court jury has ruled that a kiss shared by a man and woman was not willful misconduct although the boat the man was operating at the same time went onto the shore and hit a tree.

The jury Thursday ruled in favor of boat operator David A. Borth of Lodi and passenger Helene L. Harris of Sacramento, who were sued for $36,750 in damages by another passenger in the boat.

In her suit, June R. Becker of Sacramento said she suffered injuries to her left leg when the boat struck the tree. The accident occurred July 11, 1970, on the Mokelumne River in San Joaquin County above the Woodbridge Dam.

Mrs. Becker contended that while Borth was operating the boat, "his attentions were distracted by the negligent feminine enticement and alluring kisses of defendant Helene L. Harris ... so as to proximately cause the boat ... to crash into a tree."

Mrs. Becker said she and Mrs. Harris, both divorcees, had accepted an invitation from Borth and a friend of his to ride in the boat.

In ruling against Mrs. Becker's damage claim, the jury applied the state guest statute which holds that a nonpaying guest can't collect for injuries suffered unless there is a showing of intoxication or wilful misconduct..

'Heroin' Boat Had Sailed Twice to U.S.

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) — The fishing boat on which French customs agents found a record 937 pounds of pure heroin had sailed twice to the United States in the past two years, each time possibly using Miami as a port of call, Marseille Customs Director Jean Carre said Friday.

Carre's statement at a news conference raised speculation the 60-ton vessel, Le Caprice de Temps, was again en route to Miami when it was seized Tuesday by customs patrol boats in the Mediterranean.

Agents of the U.S. Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs have estimated the boat had almost a half-ton of pure heroin at $212.5 million in street sales in the United States. The seizure was the largest in the international war on narcotics.

Carre told newsmen he had spoken to the ship's captain, Marcel Boucan, 58, before turning him over to police. Carre quoted Boucan as saying, "I know nothing. In any case, I'll never talk."

Carre said the fishing vessel had sailed to the United States in 1970 and 1971. Each time it apparently docked in Miami, he said. Police said the destination of the vessel when it was seized was one of the main points in interrogation of Boucan.

Boucan's boat was intercepted by customs agents Tuesday after a chase on the high seas.

Agents, who for two days examined the vessel in Marseille harbor, noticed Thursday the keel had a curious shape and pickaxed their way through the cement cover over the hold. They found the heroin in plastic bags lodged in the cement.

Carre said Boucan was a World War II parachutist with Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Free French forces.

Police said they hoped through questioning to discover where the heroin had been processed, its destination and other members of the drug ring. Five crewmen aboard the ship, all from the French Island of Guadeloupe in the Caribbean, also were in police custody.

Rebuffs Congress

Nixon Extends Aid to Greece

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, citing a Soviet naval build-up in the Mediterranean Sea, has overridden congressional objections to provide about $72 million in military aid to Greece.

Nixon resumed the aid in an executive move Feb. 17, only 10 days after signing a bill that included an amendment prohibiting the United States from providing aid to the military junta that rules Greece.

Nixon's action became known Thursday when the State Department informed the chairmen of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In a memo to Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Nixon said "overriding requirements of the national security of the United States justify a waiver of the prohibition" placed in the foreign aid act by Congress.

The action was taken in response to a memo Rogers sent to Nixon one day after he signed the bill into law. The secretary said Greece would continue to need modern weapons and equipment to fulfill its NATO mission against Soviet bloc forces in the area.

"The Soviet naval build-up on the southern flank of the alliance has enhanced the importance of the Greek role," Rogers said. "The facilities which Greece offers to the U.S. and NATO would be essential in any conflict with the Warsaw Pact in the eastern Mediterranean."

Congress eliminated an administration request for $118 million in military aid to Greece "to demonstrate to the Greek people that it does not approve of, or condone, the failure of the military dictatorship in that country to schedule parliamenetary elections or otherwise to permit a restoration of constitutional processes in Greece."

Harrisburg Seven Trial

Witness Says Priest Would Risk Violence

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The Rev. Philip Berrigan recognized that violence would be a part of a plan to kidnap Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger, FBI informer Boyd F. Douglas testified Friday.

Douglas, a former convict, said Berrigan, an antiwar priest, first heard of the kidnap proposal in a secret letter written to him by Sister Elizabeth McAlister, a defendant in the Harrisburg Seven trial.

Douglas said he smuggled the un's letter into the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary for Berrigan, who was an inmate at the time.

He said Berrigan 'wanted the kidnaping to coincide with the destruction of underground utility tunnels in Washington, which he and other Roman Catholic activists were planning.

"I said I didn't see how it could be done without violence," Douglas said. "Philip Berrigan agreed that he didn't see how it could be done without the use of violence.

"I said it couldn't be done without a gun. Philip Berrigan agreed that it couldn't be without a gun, but he suggested that we use blanks in the gun instead of bullets.

"I told him I was sure I could obtain a gun for use in the kidnaping if it was requested of me."

Douglas' testimony climaxed the government's case against the seven who are charged with plotting the kidnap, the Washington tunnel bombing and the destruction of draft boards in nine eastern states.

Chief Prosecutor William S. Lynch read into the court record a letter which Berrigan had written back to Sister Elizabeth terming the kidnap idea "brilliant."

"Why not grab the brainchild," Berrigan wrote, "treat him decently, but tell him nothing of his fate—or tell him his fate hinges on the release of political people, or cessation of air strikes in Laos.

"The trick to pull off is to hit them very hard without giving them violence to react to ... It can be done and brilliantly."

Douglas testified he talked to Eqbal Ahmad, another defendant, twice on the telephone about the kidnap plan.

The defense attempted to have the conversations kept out of the court record because of insufficient proof that Ahmad had made the calls.

Federal Judge R. Dixon Herman overruled the objections and permitted Douglas to testify about the conversations.

Douglas said Ahmad told him he knew of the plan and was anxious to hear Berrigan's reaction to it.

Earlier in the day, a former Bucknell University librarian, Mrs. Zoia Horn, 53, was imprisoned in the Daughin County jail for refusing to testify despite a grant of immunity.

Douglas worked for Mrs. Horn on a part-time basis in the Bucknell library on a special-study release program while an inmate at the Lewisburg prison.

Point Reyes Cash Diverted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Senator John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said Thursday that the Point Reyes National Seashore was jeopardized by a federal plan to divert $1.9 million in acquisition funds for an Illinois project.

"It would be an act of bad faith," Tunney said in a letter to Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

Tunney said he has been trying since last December to dissuade Department of Interior officials from using what they called "surplus" Point Reyes money to buy land for a proposed memorial to Abraham Lincoln.

Firm Denies Complaints Against Lysol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission alleges that advertisements about Lysol brand disinfectants create the false impression that the products can prevent colds and flu.

Lysol's manufacturer, Sterling Drug Inc., disputed the finding in a statement Thursday that said, "The advertising claims for Lysol brand disinfectants which the Federal Trade Commission is challenging in its proposed complaint are accurate and truthful."

The FTC said the claims made by Lysol that it kills flu virus on household surfaces such as sinks, tiles and pails are true, but that the ads also imply that this helps reduce colds.

The FTC said the flu virus is usually spread through the air, rarely by surface contact.

The FTC in a proposed consent order asked Lysol to stop the advertisements and to include "clearly and conspicuously" in all its advertising for one year the following statement:

"Contrary to our prior advertising representations, the use of Lysol brand disinfectants in the home will not have significant medical benefit in reducing the incdence of preventng the spread of colds, influenza or other upper respiratory diseases."

Robert Petofsky, director of the commission's Bureau of Consumer Protecteion, said in the Lysol advertisement "the literal truth has the effect of deceiving."

Court Rulings on Property Tax Give States Headaches

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Five state courts have ruled local real estate property taxes are inherently unfair in raising money for school financing. The decisions are giving impetus to President Nixon's suggestions that the nation might adopt a value-added tax (VAT).

The court's decrees — from California, Texas, New Jersey, Arizona and Minnesota — are based on tax discriminations which favor rich school districts over poor ones.

According to the courts, richer districts are able to spend more for education, while enjoying lower tax rates than poorer districts.

The rulings are intended to augment equal education tenets. But they add to the financial headaches of local and state governments. Already near fiscal desperation, the prospect of spending more money to equalize school districts looms dismally for state officials.

Excluding building costs, more than $50 billion, annually, is spent for public elementary and secondary education. Approximately $21 billion of that total comes from property taxes. The courts' decisions affect only that segment of property tax which goes to support schools.

Barring a completely unexpected reversal, the Supreme Court will uphold the state courts' decrees. Other states will invariably fall in line. Then, all states will be forced to look to the federal government for more money.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., American's most prestigious tax legislator, said recently that both taxes, real estate and VAT, are bad. He added it will be necessary to determine which is worse.

VAT is a tax that slips up on the consumer. It is applied, step-by-step, to a product.

For instance — using a two per cent VAT — if a manufacturer paid $100 for supplies, the supplier would be charged $2. So, the manufacturer actually pays $102.

Then, the manufacturer sell his product for a net $200. He does not charge tax on the first $100, he has already paid it. But he is taxed for his $100 above supply costs. Another $2. He passes on both taxes and the retailer pays $204.

If the retailer marks up the item another $100, he is charged for his share of the product's total cost; and the consumer winds up paying $6 VAT.

A simple two per cent sales tax accomplishes the same result. However, economists, conceding most of VAT will be absorbed by the consumer, believe there will be instances when the tax is not passed on. Such a time might be when business is slack in highly competitive industries.

The one great lure for VAT is the tremendous amount of revenue realized. Based on consumption spending figures of $662 billion for last year, a two per cent VAT would have yielded $13.2 billion.

But it has just as great a liability. VAT is seen by many as a regressive tax. Because poorer families spend a larger percentage of their income on consumer items, they will pay a bigger share of the tax. Rich families can save more of their income; thus a less equable tax results.

Also, VAT could become an inflationary measure. Simply knowing VAT was in existence might cause higher cost-of-living clauses in wage contracts.

VAT will not be a legislative issue this year. Neither will it be a political issue. But President Nixon ordered the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations to report on VAT by the end of 1972. It promises to be a hot New Year's resolution.

It costs money to keep Pomona on the move

--page 5

Scan profile: Roman Ziolkowski

A dentist who also pulls rank

P-B story by Phyllis Cannon

Roman G. Ziolkowski of Pomona is a man of many talents.

And were it not for "lack of time," undoubtedly more accomplishments would be added to his list.

However, as it stands, the list is impressive.

He's best known in Pomona as a dentist with offices at 164 W. Orange Grove Ave. He has practiced from those same offices since 1948.

Currently he's in the limelight for a military promotion, and what a promotion!

Dr. Ziolkowski has been nominated by President Nixon for the rank of rear admiral in the Dental Corps of the U.S. Naval Reserve.

Only Two in the Reserve

There are only two such offices in the USNR. The other man is from Florida. Dr. Ziolkowski's territory includes everything west of the Mississippi.

This promotion caps a 31-year career in the Navy, with almost six years on active duty and the remainder in the reserves, almost all as a non-paid volunteer.

There's more.

Dr. Ziolkowski has artistic talent which he periodically puts to use. His charcoal and ink drawings decorate the walls of his office. He once won a two-year scholarship to the New York Institute of art (that was in 1936 when he was a predental student), "but I deceded that from the practical aspect, dentistry would be a little more reliable than art," he said.

And, he's a professional musician. He plays clarinet. He played professionally while in college "and I still get caught sitting in every once in a while," he admits.

Long Fascination

Interviewed in his office, wearing a blue zip top which attractively matched his level blue eyes, the dentist-officer was relaxed and obviously happy with his promotion.

"I've always had an affinity with the military," he said. "It started in high school. I played in the school's military band."

Dr. Ziolkowski, a native of Chicago, was graduated from Lane Tech High School there in Feburary of 1935. He did undergraduate work at Wright College and Loyola University, both in Chicago, and received his doctor of dental science degree in 1940 from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery.

He earned membership in two academic honor societies, Omicron Kappa Upsilon and Blue Key. He practiced 18 months in Chicago.

Then along came World War II, and in December of 1941, the month the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, the young doctor applied for a commission in the reserves. He was accepted and given active duty.

Duty in Corona

During the following six years, he served at Great Lakes, Ill., and the Naval Hospital in Corona, and saw combat duty in New Georgia, New Caledonia and aboard the USS Columbus.

"I'd gotten a good look at California and the Pomona area in particular, while at Corona," he said, "and the thought of returning to Chicago after the war seemed pretty grim. So I stayed here."

His practice, he said, has been "coordinated around" his duties in the reserves. Through the years he has served with units at the Pomona Naval Training Center.

This usually meant Tuesday and Thursday nights in addition to active duty training and some travel.

"There's always been some travel, but this promotion will mean much more," Dr. Ziolkowski said. "Within the next three or four years I'll cover all the Navy facilities in the United States.

"I have out-of-state commitments each month through July.

"I'll be expected to sit on promotion boards of other officers, to serve as liaison for all dental officers, make periodic checks of dental companies in the reserves and attend such things as inspection and change-of-command ceremonies, either as a dignitary or as principal speaker."

Dr. Ziolkowski is a member of the National Advisory Committee of the Naval Reserve Association, a responsibility which calls him to about four meetings a year.

Civilian Duties, Too

In addition to his military responsibilities, he finds time to devote to "civilian experiences." He is a past president of the Tri-County Dental Society and is president elect of the American Academy of General Dentistry. He is an administrative adviser and clinical instructor for dental assistants courses at Chaffey College. He is dental health coordinator and examiner for parochial schools. He is a Boy Scout counselor, and has been a high school professional counselor the past four years.

He has numerous professional affiliations.

And still he finds time to be an attentive family man.

Dr. Ziolkowski and his wife, Dolly, live at 1276 Hillcrest Dr. with four of their five children. Patricia, the eldest, is attending the School of Performing Arts in Winston-Salem, N.C.

Steve is a student at Citrus College, Jeff attends Ganesha High School, Nancy is a student at Marshall Junior High School, and Tina is a second grader at Lincoln School.

How is life with a man of such talent and energy?

"It's a pleasure being married to him," said Dolly.

China trip boosts Nixon's N.H. stock

President Nixon's remote-control campaign for the March 7 New Hampshire primary appears to be moving faster now, and at least one Republican expert thinks he may get as much as 75 per cent of his party's vote.

Up until this moment there has been some discontent among a few key New Hampshire Republicans over what they saw as lack of pace and intensity in the Nixon effort.

In one leader's view, New Hampshire represents a golden opportunity to deliver a quick knockout punch to both of the President's declared 1972 GOP rivals, Rep. Paul (Pete) McCloskey of California and Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio.

A party expert outside the state agrees, arguing that if these two somehow could stay alive as candidates in later primaries, they might cause more trouble than they ever could manage here.

Today, however, these concerns may no longer be warranted. The president is gaining here.

One reason is obvious. China. Top Republicans say Nixon's visit to Peking has had substantial impact on New Hampshire voters. Even though they do not have the fullest television coverage possible. Comments from McCloskey about the "political timing" of the trip register as petty, despite their partial truth.

The other reason: Only a few weeks ago, after a badly lagging start, the Nixon forces brought into the state a woman from Minnesota, Mrs. Nancy Brattas, to step up recruitment and organization of volunteer canvassers for a needed telephone blitz.

Mrs. Brattas was chosen carefully for expertise. She had been useful in the successful reelection campaign of Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis. The tone and speed of the Nixon effort here seemed to change from the moment she arrived on the scene.

Her nuts-and-bolts work is the crucial stuff. Not too much benefit was accruing from the spaced-out visits of Nixon cabinet members and other top administration officials, though some good may come from a final Saturday night spectacular here led by New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Campaigns in "absentia" are never easy. Says one leader:

"You can send in all the Cabinet people you want, but they really don't take the place of the candidate."

Yet, if Interior Secretary Rogers Morton and aide Robert Finch can't give a good boost, having the President come into New Hampshire living rooms from the Great Wall in China isn't a bad way to recoup.

In 1968, the Nixon vote, produced in a near vacuum after the pullout of Gov. George Romney, reached 77 per cent. Recent polls have placed Nixon around the 70 per cent mark this time, but they may already be outdated.

One analyst contends that the President has a basic core of New Hampshire support somewhere in the range of 55 to 60 per cent. He is convinced the President's helpers can juice that all the way up to 75 per cent by a hard outpouring of energy in these final days.

McCloskey is well organized, has dedicated cadres of young anit-war volunteers and some pull on the state's modest-sized liberal element. No one ever spent more time campaigning in New Hampshire. But the picture of the President in China may be worth all McCloskey's projected 76 days in New Hampshire.

As for the conversative Ashbrook, he is considered not off the ground at all.

Bible teaches religion should be joyful

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

The greatest libel ever perpetrated against God is the notion that He likes to see men express obeisance to Him through somber, long-faced, mirthless piety.

The Bible teaches precisely the opposite. The hallmark of true religion, it says, is joy.

A careful count in a concordance reveals that the noun "joy" is found in the Bible 164 times, while the verb "rejoice" appears 191 times.

Joy as described in the Scriptures is a higher state than mere happiness or contentment. It has an exultant, overflowing quality. Perhaps the nearest synonym is "gladness".

The Bible depicts joy as one of the inherent attributes of God.

The Apostle Paul listed it second (after love) among the "fruits of the Spirit" that appear in the lives of those who open their hearts to the indwelling presence of God's Spirit.

Duty and Gift

But Paul spoke of joy as a duty as well as a gift. It is something men ought to seek out and cultivate, not merely await.

"Always be joyful in your life in the Lord," he commanded the early Christians of Philippi. "I say it again: rejoice!"

Although Jesus has been called "a man of sorrows" — and rightly so, because his compassion for others was so great he suffered with every unhappy, hungry or sick person he encountered —the dominant note of his personality, as it emerges from the Gospels, is a radiant, contagious joy.

Even at his last supper, as he awaited the ordeal of arrest, trial and execution, he prayed that his disciples "might have my joy in their hearts, in all its fullness."

This is one of the paradoxes that are forever cropping up in the Christian faith: joy and sadness can co-exist in the same person, at the same time. "They are not contradictories," explains theologian Richard R. Niebuhr. "They are opposites and hence plain practicing Christians have experienced the possibility of feeling profoundly and inexplicably joyous in the midst of suffering and bereavement.

Accept God's Will

The key to this joy-in-sadness seems to be acceptance of God's will, whatever it may be. "To will what God wills, to want what He wants, is to have joy," said the great medieval mystic Meister Eckhart.

Joy is such a central theme of Christ's teaching —and indeed of all the Bible —it seems strange so many people should have been afflicted through the centuries with the concept that sour piety is pleasing to God.

Perhaps that peppery old revivalist Billy Sunday put his finger on the explanation.

"The trouble with many people," Sunday said, "is that they have got just enough religion to make them miserable."

Kleindienst lied about role in ITT 'fix'

We have now established that Attorney General-designate Richard Kleindienst told an outright lie about the Justice Department's sudden out-of-court settlment of the Nixon Administration's biggest anti-trust case.

The case involved the International Telephone and Telegraph conglomerate, which appeared on the way to a Supreme Court showdown with the Justice Department over ITT's takeover of the huge Hartford Fire Insurance Company.

Last July, however, the case was abruptly settled. The terms, considered highly favorable to ITT, were announced at the same time ITT secretly pledged up to $400,000 to support the Republican convention in San Diego this year. A check for $100,000 has already been written.

Denying any connection between the convention cash and the anti-trust settlement, Kleindiesnt insisted that the Justice Department's anti-trust staff had been free from any political pressure from above.

"The settlement between the Department of Justice and ITT was handled and negotiated exclusively by Assistant Attorney General Richard W. McLaren (then head of the anti-trust division), "Kleindienst said in a letter to Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien.

However, we have now learned that Kleindienst himself held roughly a half-dozen secret meetings on the ITT case with a director of the company before the settlement was reached.

The director, Wall Street financier Felix Rohatyn, conceded to us that he met in private with Kleindienst, who was then Deputy Attorney General, at the same time McLaren was negotiating with ITT's lawyers.

"I was supposed to make the case on the economic side of it," Rohatyn told my associate Brit Hume. He said he particularly stressed to Kleindienst ITT's arguments for keeping Hartford Fire.

Kleindienst Duplicity

Kleindienst's duplicity is further evidence that the Administration has much to hide in the ITT affair, which looks more supsicious the more we investigate it.

Not only Kleindienst, but his boss, outgoing Attorney General John Mitchell, has now been linked to the settlement. Mitchell had officially disqualified himself from the case because of an old relationship with ITT. Yet Dita Beard, the company's top lobbyist, has now acknowledged that she arranged the settlement with Mitchell in a private conversation at the governor's mansion in Kentucky after last year's Kentucky Derby.

Her confession came after we obtained an extraordinary confidential memo, written by her, from ITT's files. The memo suggested strongly that the settlement was made in exchange for ITT's pledge of cash support for the Republican convention.

Mrs. Beard also told that the day after we confronted her with the memo, ITT security men from New York shredded many of her office files because they feared the papers might be supoened when the memo became public.

Mitchell would not discuss the matter with us. John Hushen, a Justice Department spokesman, told us there was "no truth" to Mrs. Beard's story. He acknowledged, however, that Mitchell had spoken to Mrs. Beard at the governor's mansion.

We gave Hushen specific questions to ask the Attorney General. But four hours later, after conferring with Mitchell, he called us back without the answers.

Instead, he urged that we hold our story on Mrs. Beard's version of events until, as Hushen put it, "We get all our ducks in a row." He said Mitchell would "prove" the falsehood of Mrs. Beard's incriminating memo, but three days later, no proof had appeared.

Big Republican Names

The June 25, 1971, memo is studdded with such big Republican names as President Nixon, Mitchell, California Lt. Gove. Ed Reinecka, San Diego Congressman Bob Wilson, White house aide Bob Haldeman and H. S. (Hal) Geneen, ITT's president.

It is addressed to W. R. (Bill) Merriam, manager of ITTs Washington office. "I thought you and I had agreed very thoroughly that under no circumstances would anyone in this office discuss with anyone our participation in the Convention, including me," Mrs. Beard wrote.

"Other than permitting John Mitchell, Ed Reniecke, Bob Haldeman and Nixon (besides Wilson, of course) no one has known from whom that 400 thousand commitment had come.

"I am convinced, because of several conversations with Louis (Nunn) re Mitchell that our noble commitment has gone a long way toward our negotiations on the mergers eventually coming out as Hal (Geneen) wants them. Certainly the President has told Mitchell to see that things are worked out fairly. It is still only McLaren's mickey-mouse we are suffering . . .

"If (the convention cash) gets too much publicity you can believe our negotiations with Justice will wind up shot down. Mitchell is definitely helping us, but cannot let it be known. Please destroy this, huh?"

Russ poet carries on legacy of lines

By ED HARWOOD

STOLEN APPLES, Poetry by Yevgeny Yevtushenko, Doubleday, $8.95.

With the death of Alexander T. Tvardovsky, Russia must count on Yevgeny Yevtushenko for its poetic place in the sun, at least as it shines in western eyes.

(C. Edwin Harwood is professor of English and associate vice president for academic affairs at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

But who is "this damned Y. Y." . . . movie star . matador . . . tightrope walker . . . unofficial diplomat . . . nice, inquisitive traveler . . .Soviet Beatle . . . export item, perhaps, like vodka or black caviar . . . conformist . . radical . . . or all these mere ingredients blended in the shaker of the age into a strange cocktail called Yevtushenko?"

His own words, these (in translation, of course). WHO he is seems to concern him less than WHAT he is, however—a poet who deeply resents "being discussed as a political personality," as he tells us in the remarkable introduction to "Stolen Apples."

That he is indeed a poet is made clear by this unusual collection of "adaptations" by James Dickey, Geoffrey Dutton, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Anthony Kahn, Stanley Kunitz, George Reavey, John Updike, and Richard Wilbur. Ignoring his recent histrionics at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum and the quality of "Bombs for Balalaikas," one may take him at his word: "I don't want to be free from the struggle for freedom. But I do want to be free to determine the forms it will take."

And the forms it obviously takes for Y.Y. are poetic forms—ranging from stanzas full of youthful bravado to poems of quiet power. It is difficult to illustrate such complexities in brief passages but a poet must be judged by his lines. So a wax museum at Hamburg becomes the symbol for a hypocritical society:

It's time, under hot bright lights,
To drag down out of their balconies
This collection of stupid faces
Like carp from scummy green pools.
It's time, it's really time at last
To get rid of junk like this!
Into the wax musem
Of liars
with these priests of a lousy temple!

Two Russians are captured in the haunting poem, "In Memory of Akhmatova."

Two ages ours—and gone.
How could we weep?
The very thought was dry.
Alive,
she was beyond belief.
How could she die?
Gone like a nightsong, feathers dipped through garden air to a dim branch, as if forever gone to Petersburg from Leningrad.

She lay as if awaiting a marriage with nothing left to darn or wipe or sweep;
a peasant, said her face, her hands, her carriage,
a domestic, it would seem.

To be no more—how heavenly a state.
The people of the house were kind enough, and like a child before a holiday
they washed and neatly dressed her up.

Without a staff, without a crown a queen among the tarnished gifts of state and man, she lay absolvingly serene,
like the woman dressed in secondhand.

And in that other grave the woman lay who never looked on Nice, and on her brow
a p p e a r e d Akhmatova's stern grace.
And between them there was no frontier.

Propaganda often obtrudes, sometimes in accents of protest that are all too familiar to American readers.

Jeane Dixon lauds words of Jesus

By DOROTHY TURNER

THE CALL TO GLORY: Jeane Dixon Speaks of Jesus by Jeane Dixon. William Morrow & Co., Inc. $4.95.

A columnist for the Progress-Bulletin, Jeane Dixon is well known for her books about mysticism and her own prophecies.

(Dorothy Banker Turner is a Pomona Valley free-lance writer and teacher.)

In this new offering she touches upon her belief in God and adds that she believes in the devil. "There is no escape from involvement in the clash of these divine and cosmic powers, whether it be in the smallest family quarrel or conflicts such as world wars," she explains.

She links the teachings of Jesus to current international problems. Then in various ways she cites the need for and power of religious faith. It is the food of the soul, she explains, and from it come hope and charity. With it man can look ever for the morrow.

Mrs. Dixon writes in her usual readable style and makes her points clearly and provocatively. In addition, she creates a delineation of the Old Testament prophecies, comparing them with prevailing ones concerning the state of Israel.

Anticipating the 200th anniversary of America, she advocates leaning upon the teachings of Jesus.

This volume merits a place on every home library shelf and frequent reading aloud at times of stress.

Primal Therapy--cure for neurosis or just new tag?

By HOWARD SCHUMAN

THE ANATOMY OF MENTAL ILLNESS, by Arthur Janov, Ph. D. Putnam, $7.95.

In this book, Janov, who earned his doctorate at Claremont, attempts to provide a scientific basis for Primal Therapy.

He turns to physiology in general, and brain physiology in particular in an attempt to account for some of the results which he has observed in Primal Therapy patients.

He discusses the origin of neuroses and various other behavior disorders in terms of the theory which he has developed. He presents follow-up data in 25 patients, and also presents some testimonials.

Dr. Janov's theory of neurosis is, with some variations, a simplified version of Freud's psychoanalytic theories. He describes the development of neurosis in essentially six stages.

The first is development of basic needs which he calls Primal needs. These include not only the obvious physical needs but many psychological and emotional needs such as love and comfort, safety, appreciation, etc.

The second is the frustration of these needs through such things as a traumatic birth process or threat of rejection by important family members. Janov says that a person ". . . is born into a situation where his needs cannot be met, where his feelings cannot be expressed spontaneously, and where he is not allowed to mature at his own natural pace . . . In order to get by . . . he must often be something unnatural. He must inhibit his deepest needs and feelings because they consistitute . . . danger of the loss of love, caring and protection by his all-powerful parents."

Stage three is the experience of Primal Pain brought on by frustration of Primal needs.

Number four, is repression of the frustrated needs and consequent pain.

Step five is a split between the feeling of, and the conscious realization of, the Primal needs, the pain and danger of their expression, and of the Primal Pain. Janov describes this split as a splitting of a person from his real self, which helps to protect him from Primal Pain.

Step six is the development of neurosis caused by the split. Neurosis is a symbolization of Primal Pain and includes sych manifestations as alcoholism, excessive smoking, homosexuality, psychogenic epilepsy, frigidity, and others.

Janov describes the split in terms of brain functions. Motivating needs likely originate in the hypothalmus and the pain of unmet needs is stored in the temporal cortex. The frontal cortex acts to prevent the unconscious material from becoming conscious while the feeling of danger, lest the material become conscious, is processed in the limbic system. Realization and comprehension of needs are formulated in the frontal cortex.

(Dr. Howard Schuman is a consulting psychologist and director of the Schuman Psychological Center in Upland.)

These descriptions are consistent with modern brain theory and are rather typical of the kinds of descriptions which behavioral scientists apply to brain functions. Various other personality theorists and psychotherapists have also described the origins of neurosis as existing in early trauma and unfulfilled needs and have devised methods of dealing with them including abreaction and catharsis, dream analysis, narco-synthesis, hypnotism, psychodrama, etc. These methods all permit a re-living of the original trauma but with a different ending.

Janov insists that Primal Therapy is a living, not a re-living of the early trauma and what is new and unique to the Janov system is the notion that the person must experience the trauma on a preverbal level and scream out his Primal Pain. The scream is called the Primal Scream. A description of the therapeutic process itself was in Janov's previous book, "The Primal Scream."

His therapists help their patients to remember their Primal Pains. After each painful experience is recalled, the patient is helped to scream the Primal Scream. When all of the Primal Pain has been relieved by Primal Screams, the patient is cured.

He claims Primal Therapy can cure a wide variety of mental and emotional conditions, and can improve many physiological states such as stomach disorders, allergies, high blood pressure, backaches, hemorrhoids and skin disorders.

He also feels that he may have found the "fountain of youth" in the sense that his Primal Therapy lowers a person's temperature which in turn slows down the body and enables the person to live longer. (This is also true of other tension-reducing therapies).

His cured patients suffer much less tension and therefore need to engage in much less tension-reducing behaviors such as smoking, drinking, masturbation and drug usage. They struggle less, claim better marital adjustments, do fewer things and want fewer things (including sex) and are much less inclined to engage in political activity.

Dr. Janov feels that only those whom he has trained are capable of performing Primal Therapy. This is possibly a slap at some of his maverick trainees who have opened a competing therapy institute.

Janov's book is well-written and interesting. But one gets the impression that he claims too much for his therapy and one is a little suspicious that he strongly suggests that his is the Only way.

Everybody's wrong here

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We will let Culbertson wind up the "Battle Royal" in his own words. "I groaned inwardly when South opened that horrible two bid and wondered if I dared impose the maximum fine.

"The rest of the bidding was normal. West opened the king of hearts and instead of making the killing shift to a trump continued with the ace and another heart.

"Now she's going to make this horrible contract, I reflected bitterly, but dummy came through. He took his nine of trumps, remakred, 'Here's where dummy takes a trick,' and tossed the nine in the center of the table. East plunked on the jack.

"Now she's down, I reflected, but East made the frightful play of a low diamond away from the ace and there really was no way for South to lose another trick. Game and rubber.

"A genuine grand finale. I fined South $10 for the two bid, West $5 for bad defense, North $10 for chucking a trick as dummy and East $10 for about as bad a play as I have ever seen."

It costs money to keep city on move

Story by Tony Navarro

Photos by Sid Fridkin

When not attending classes at MSAC, Robert Hubert works part-time for city

Nancy Stucker, computer operator, and Dale Higley, systems, in computer room

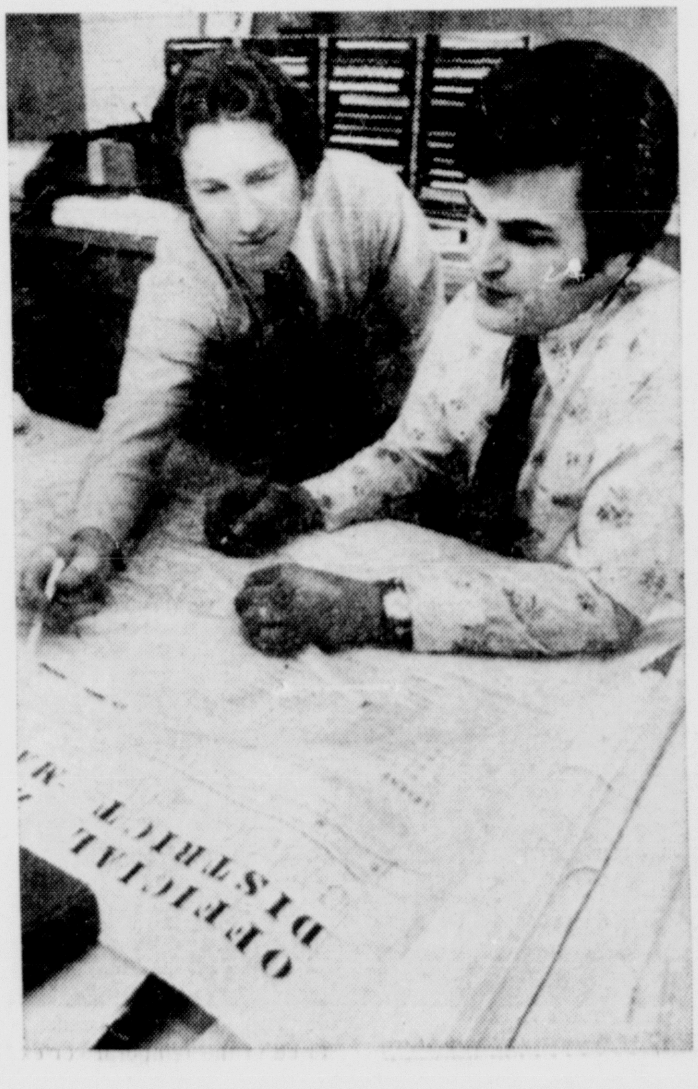
POMONA — City government is more than the main provider of services for this city's 87,000 residents.

It is also big business. Big business as both a major employer and in its impact on the area's economy.

For the calendar year 1971, the city's payroll totaled $8,745,-107, according to Robert A. Otto, finance director.

The amount is what was spent for employe salaries and wages in the general government departments, the Pomona Valley Municipal Transit System, the water department, Tri-City Mental Health Authority and also reflects the beginning late last year of the Public Employment Program (PEP).

As of Jan. 1, the personnel office estimated there were 785 regular employes on the payroll, a figure expected to increase to about 1,000 in the summer when the city-school district sponsored recreation program goes into full swing.



For Ron Pflugrath, left, planning intern, and Ron Ball, planning graphics draftsman, planning ahead is serious business

Although local government is not the biggest employer in town, it ranks among the top.

The leader in employment among both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing businesses is General Dynamics with about 3,800 employes.

In the nonmanufacturing field, General Telephone Co. leads with 1,770.

Does it pay to work for some aspect of municipal government? It depends.

Pay of public servants depends on whether they're regular employes, casual, seasonal, part-time, temporary, elected, appointed, and of course, the jobs being filled.

The 1971-72 salary schedule includes more than 250 job classifications for posts ranging from pool attendant, which pays $1.59 an hour, to city administrator, which pays $31,500 a year.

The five members of the City Council who run the city earn less than most of the city's employes.

Mayor Richard C. Brownell earns $400 a month and each of the four councilmen receives $200 monthly. No matter how the five elected officials perform or how long they've been on the job, their salaries remain the same unless changes are approved by voters.

Highest paid are the department heads whose salaries could range anywhere from $926 to $2,625 a month. Lowest salaries generally are in the clerical field.

For example, the starting salary for a trash collector (maintenanceman, truck driver helper) is $552 a month compared to $464 for a communications trainee, $464 for a typist clerk and $513 for a stenographer clerk.

Why do persons go into public service?

"I think they have a sincere desire to work for programs for people which aren't strictly profit-motivated and because there is a security to public employment," said City Administrator Ora E. Lampman.

Lampman classifies employes into several categories.

"There are the professionals, like department heads and other regular employes who desire a career in public service because they enjoy serving people," said Lampman.

"This city has cooperated with local colleges on various training programs for students, something that has benefited both municipal government and the students," he said.

"The students through their enthusiasm, dedication and innovative ideas help us while at the same time they learn practical knowledge that cannot be gained by simply reading books."

"Unfortunately, too many times, the city is unable to retain these interns and trainees after they become qualified because other agencies and private enterprise are able to offer them better salaries."

"Then we have the college and high school age students, particularly during the summer who find meaningful employment with us they otherwise would not have and at the same time are given an opportunity to investigate the possibility of careers in public service."

Speidel Enterprises: local success story

POMONA — Seven years ago, Pomona native John R. Speidel, employed at General Dynamics for 14 years as a program manager, made the decision to found a business of his own.

Today, he heads up Speidel Enterprises, Inc., a mini conglomerate that counts four divisions and one subsidiary — Speidel & Associates; Electronics Research and Development and Light Manufacturing; Property Management; Speidel Enterprises, developers of the Spizer Building; and the subsidiary, the Physical Evaluation Center.

With projected sales of $1 million this year, Speidel Enterprises, Inc., is a hometown success story involving Pomona people. Area residents comprise the greatest percentage of the 20 stockholders and area people manage and direct the firm.

Speidel is president of the corporation. Other officers are Andruss Northrup, vice president; Mrs. Speidel, secretary; and John Stanley, treasurer.

Offices presently located at 200 N. Park Ave. will be moved to the corporation's single most dramatic project undertaken in this city, the nine-story, high-rise office building now under construction at 4th and Gordon streets.

The venture began in 1966 when three men, Speidel, his brother Walter, and Northrup, the present director of the Electronics, Research and Development and Light Manufacturing Division, began Speidel Enterprises as a sales proprietorship. Incorporation took place in 1968, when the research and management consultant team expanded into the electronic field in a consultant capacity for scheduling systems.

At that time, they directed the construction schedule for the new General Telephone plant in Colton and work at Kaiser Hospital, Fontana.

Further expansion and diversification followed with the formation of the property management and land development division headed by Walter Speidel. The original management consultant division is now headed by Richard Brodkorb.

The corporation's most recent venture is the formation of the subsidiary, the Physical Evaluation Center, Pomona's first medical office exclusively limited to medical examination services. Dr. M. L. McGrath is the director of the facility, located at 260 N. Park Ave.

Plans call for this unique medical service to be expanded into surrounding cities. The main office will be located in the Spizer Building, when completed.

In addition to the $4 million office building now under construction, Speidel Enterprises, Inc., is presently in the financing and leasing stage of developing a retail fashion center in the downtown area.

John Speidel and Donald E. Smith, another native Pomonan and assistant treasurer of Todd Memorial Chapel are co-developers of this project.

Speidel describes an anticipated pedestrian concourse on Gordon Street from Main Street to Mission Boulevard as a walkway landscaped with mature trees and well-lighted with artistic endowments, tying the new office building with the business community and Civic Center. An outdoor French cafe, adjacent to the Spizer building, will be an added attraction.

It is anticipated that the growing firm will expand the consulting division to include computerized economic and mathematic models with an increase in staff from 13 to 35 people to perform these services on an international basis.

An average of 20 employes is already engaged in consulting services for numerous industrial giants in this country — Aerojet General, Bell Laboratories, General Electric, General Motors, Ford Motor Co., McDonnell-Douglas and others.

The officers at Speidel Enterprises, Inc., have a vested interest in the future of Pomona, and express an optimistic view of future developments.

"The Electronics division will open a small new manufacturing facility in an industrial park," Northrup revealed as he discussed prime requirements for what Speidel Enterprises, Inc., feels are necessary for the city's redevelopment program.

Speidel said "With the support of the community and with the anticipated growth that we expect for the city within the next five years, we expect the total Speidel land development dollars could easily exceed the $20 million mark."

"Land development can proceed under the present condition of being supported by the existing Speidel Enterprises base within the land development division on a project-by-project basis," the president of this firm which has grown from sales of $30,000 in 1966 to sales of $600,000 i.. 1971, explained.

"Or," he said, "it may be decided to syndicate development, rather than support it entirely from corporation funds." Either way, Speidel plans and expects growth and change for the betterment of Pomona.

This city's mini conglomerate seems destined for success as corporation officers look forward to going public and listing on an exchange within the next two years, just in time to celebrate the first decade of Speidel Enterprises, Inc.

Garey law students get day in court

Students from Garey High School's "Laws for Youth" course had their day in court last Friday when Judge Norman L. Vroman invited them to use the facilities at Municipal Court while he presided over a mock civil case they had been studying.

This interaction between the students and the courts is typical of the new course, which is one of the most popular at the school. Social science teacher Neil R. Romero developed the course outline over the summer with the help of Pomona Atty. Paul M. Mahoney, who felt that local members of the bar association would be willing to donate their time to helping young people learn more about the legal system.

Since September, the four "Laws for Youth" classes at Garey High have been visited twice weekly by lawyers, judges, public defenders, prosecuting attorneys, police department officials, and private investigators, all giving the students expert advice about their particular phase of the legal process.

According to Garey Principal James A. Arwood, the students are getting an expert understanding of their rights and responsibilities under the law through the unique "mock trial" method used in the course. They are able to see how the legal process works from the point of view of a person who is charged with an offense, what legal procedures go into operation, and what type of legal help is available.

As each new case is taken up, class members take the part of the defendants, lawyers, jurymen, and witnesses, with the teacher serving as judge. All testimony is tape-recorded, so that lawyers can check over past information during the proceedings. The witnesses are given a list of facts known to them, and the lawyers for their side must ask questions that will draw out that information.

The classes spend six weeks studying criminal law, three weeks on civil law, and two on family law. They are currently working on a civil personal injury case concerning a 12-year-old boy who was injured when his arm became entangled in a coin-operated laundry washing machine.

In the mock case — which is based on an actual personal injury suit — the boy's family is suing the washer manufacturer for a large sum, and doctors, psychiatrists, and witnesses are presented to give testimony. The lawyers for the prosecution claim that irresponsible behavior, not defective machinery, caused the injury. Part of this case was given by two classes at Municipal Court on Friday, with Judge Vroman presiding.

Romero points out that some students have become so interested in class proceedings that they have expressed an interest in entering the legal field. On some occasions students taking the part of lawyers have gone to local law libraries on their own time to research precedents that would help them build a better case. He hopes to present an advanced course at the school next year specifically for students who plan on law as a vocation.

Teen Scope

Do labor laws help or hurt?

'Youth lib' fights teen unemployment

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For most of its history the United States let its children fend for themselves in the area of making a buck. Kids were part of the available work force and that was that. So it was: the cavalry sometimes hired teen-agers to scout Indians, manufacturers hired little beggars for the lowest-paying jobs, and the nation's employers became notorious the world around for their sweatshop exploitation of little people down to the age of six.

All that changed in 1938. Public indignation brought about the Fair Labor Standards Act. It forbade anyone under 14 from any salaried employment. It set 14 as the minimum age for specified jobs outside school hours. It established 16 as the basic minimum age for full-time employment in nonhazardous occupations.

At the time, and for many years after, the act was hailed. Every state in the Union followed with new laws of their own, or the stiffening of old ones.

Now, however, the cheers have faded.

Many out-of-work kids are booing instead.

Every day the Department of Labor receives letters such as this recent one from a boy in Michigan: "I'm 15 and I want to work in a lumberyard, only the law says I can't. The law says I'm too young to work regular after school. The law says I'm too young to work in a 'hazardous' occupation. I don't think the law is fair. I'm 6 feet 2 and 195 pounds. I need the money."

The complaints are, officials say, another manifestation of Young People's Lib (some call it young People's Lip). And there is no doubt why it's growing: youth unemployment is running at one of the highest rates in the history of the Union.

According to Eli Cohen, director of the National Committee on the Employment of Youth, there are "about one million kids between 16 and 19 out of work. That's about 17 per cent of those who want jobs. And when you get into categories it's worse. Unemployment for black children is 35 per cent, double that of the national average. And in the ghettos one of two kids is out of a job."

Cohen says he doesn't have reliable statistics on unemployment under age 16. "but the general situation is very bad for all kids. As bad as I've seen."

Ergo, the complaints from youngsters that the 1938 Fair Labor Standards Act should be modified. They say it's outdated. And more than that. They say it forces some kids to break the law (to lie about their age, to withhold income tax). They say it forces some kids into a kind of economic slavery ("If you take an illegal job, you do whatever the boss says and like it"). They say it also causes some (many?) kids to drop out of school ("They can't afford to stay in").

Even some adults are concerned. Robert Taggart, executive director of the National Manpower Policy Task Force, says he believes tight federal laws are in some cases hurting rather than helping kids: "The good employers won't break the law to hire them, so kids must go to bad employers who don't care about the law."

Taggart thus agrees with the youngsters' complaints. He believes some jobs deemed hazardous in 1938 should be opened up today.

He believes kids who need to combine school and work should be considered case by case. In sum, he believes youngsters of today are "perfectly capable of looking out for themselves."

Other adults, to be sure, take other views. Labor Department officials are especially reluctant to see a relaxation of child work laws. Adelia Kloak, the department's child labor expert, says that in some areas the laws should be strengthened: "Every year we find thousands of abuses of the existing laws. Often they are tragic abuses. I've just heard of a case wher an underage boy was operating a meat grinder in a supermarket. He got his arm caught all the way to the elbow. They had to take both him and the grinder to the hospital."

Mrs. Kloak says the nation should be concentrating on plugging child labor loopholes, rather than opening up new ones. "Agriculture, for instance, is now excepted in most states from strict laws. So we see time and again and 9-year-old children doing stoop labor in the fields."

But even Mrs. Kloak concedes that 1972 is not 1938, that kids today are different from kids yesterday. Therefore: "Perhaps some reassessment of the laws is in order." But she doesn't see it happening. Not now anyway. With so many adults out of work, nobody is currently paying much attention to Young People's Lip.

MECHA hosting Southland boxing

By DIANE NABARRETE
Garey Reporter

Tonight the Garey High gym will be transformed into a boxing ring, and boys of all ages and weights will be competing from around the Southland, including three Garey students.

Garey's MECHA is sponsoring this event and is inviting the public to attend. Boxing will begin at 7 p.m. Tickets at the door will be $2 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12.

Senior Albert Davila, will be competing in the international division. Albert has been a four-time winner of the junior golden glove award, two-time winner of the junior olympic champion award, 1970 West Coast AU Champion, 1970 National AAU champion, 1971 member of the U.S.A. team that competed against the Soviet Union, 1971 National AAU Runnerup Champion, and the 1972 State Diamond Belt champion.

Albert Sandoval, also a Garey student, will also be competing in the open division. Albert has won various awards as a four time winner of the junior golden glove award, three-time winner of the junior Olympic award, and silver gloves and Pan American silver glove championship award.

Another Garey student competing is Jesse Ceniceros. Jesse is currently competing in the Liga Municipal de box in Mexicali. Jesse was the 1970 and 1971 junior Olympic heavyweight champ, and the 1971 golden glove champion.

Besides the three boxers mentioned, 14 other boxers will be featured.

Refreshments, will be sold by MECHA members.

"Everybody's Everything" has been selected to carry out the theme for the MECHA Central dance next Saturday, at the Cal Poly girls gym. "Cold Duck," a band from Boyle Heights who is currently cutting an album, will be the feature band. "Salvation" will also provide music from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Tickets may be purchased for $2 in advance by contacting any MECHA member from either Pomona, Garey, or Ganesha High School.

Outdoor concert set tonight at St. Lucy's

"Central" will be the main band in an outdoor dance concert at St. Lucy's Priory tonight. "Carlson and Durio" and "Us" will complete the program, which is planned to include folk, rock, and bluegrass music.

Sponsored by St. Lucy's senior class, the concert is its main fundraising event of the year. Maryanna Schilz, senior class president, hopes to attract a large attendance.

"We're celebrating adulthood," she explained, "by having the concert on the day that many of us will legally be adults."

The concert will start at 8 p.m. in St. Lucy's outdoor ampitheater. The school is located in Glendora on Sierra Madre Avenue between Grand and Barranca.

Admission is $1.50. Hot apple cider, homemade donuts, and ice-cold soft drinks will be on sale during the concert.

"Everyone should remember to bring a blanket," Maryanna added. "It'll probably be cold, and many people may want to sit on the grass."

Maryanna, along with senior Vice President Marian Ashe and Secretary-Treasurer Ann McGrade, has been coordinating the efforts of the main committees. These include the band committee, headed by Julie Garner, and the refreshment committee, headed by Ellen Best.

AFS selling white tags for funds

By DENA BELINKOFF
Claremont Reporter

Supporting overseas exchange students is a costly business, as the Claremont American Field Service chapter has discovered. So, as in past years, to ease the financial burden, the club is holding the traditional White Tag Sale.

The tag sale is a unique money raiser in that all involved benefit. A person may buy a White Tag for one dollar — the money goes to support AFS students. On the designated days — March 10 and 11 — White Tag owners are given specified discounts at a wide variety of Claremont businesses. The shoppers benefit from the discounts and the merchants are patronized by the White Tag holders.

Accompanying the White Tags are lists of the available discounts, which range from five to 30 per cent off on items from carpets to hot fudge sundaes.

New Zealander hoping to spread word of her country

MARCIA LA COUR
Chino Reporter

"We know so much about you, but you know so little about us," stresses Sheryll Goudie, 16, a Rotary Club exchange student from Thames, New Zealand.

Sheryll has been staying in the home of Dr. and Mrs. George Schuchard of Chino since the end of January. She is presently attending classes at Chino High along with her American "sister" Chris, a CHS senior. When Sheryll returns, Chris will accompany her to complete the "full exchange."

During her six-month stay in the U.S., Miss Goudie hopes to clear up a lot of questions about New Zealanders. She noted that many people she has come across don't even know where New Zealand is. "Isn't it a part of Australia?"

Sheryll's knowledge of America prepared her for her visit. Before departing, she was warned by family and friends alike not to "come back with their accent!" and "don't pick up the typical view on the war in Vietnam." Although Sheryll realizes a general desire to get out of the war, with so many different ideas on how and why to pull out she laughed, "I can't find the 'typical' view!"

Seeing the United States from a different angle is something quite unique for most Americans. From a foreigner's viewpoint, Sheryll commented, "what really struck me is drugs; they are talked about all the time. They are common language." Drugs are not such an enormous problem in New Zealand. She explained that since the domain is so small—the entire N.Z. population being near equal to the count in Los Angeles alone—possibly drugs are not so readily available.

Miss Goudie's first impressins of the area were that it was "big and smoggy." Thames, her hometown, has a population of about 6,000 compared to Chino's "small town" count of 21,750. The fact that New Zealand is a series of islands with constant sea breezes accounts for the absence of smog.

School in Thames is "not as free" as American schools Sheryll explained. At the beginning of high school, students pick six subjects and follow them through five years of high school. Students are allowed to leave school completely at 15, however. After taking the same area of subjects for so long, Miss Goudie remarked, "We become sort of 'practiced'. In America, you become more of individualists."

Those who continue schooling after high school are required to take a series of five three-hour exams in different areas in order to qualify for financial aid toward a university education. Most others, as Sheryll, plan to attend a technical, business, or secretarial institute after graduation.

On the lighter side, Sheryll's understanding and knowledge of the States hasn't helped or prepared her much as far as auto transportation is concerned. In N.Z., the driver sits on the right and drives on the left side of the road; the reverse of our system. As a front seat passenger, Sheryll quipped, "I feel as if I should be driving! I catch myself getting in on the left side and trying to use the brake when we're driving down streets."

Sheryll's father, Colin Goudie, owns a British Ford dealership and also deals with boats and boat equipment and motors. Her mother teaches part-time at the elementary school.

In Thames, Sheryll and her sister, 14, are active in a netball team which traveled to compete with another town in Australia. (Netball is similar to a basketball game with no backboard and no dribbling. The ball must be passed throughout the game.)

Her two brothers, ages nine and 10, compete with a Rugby team. Rugby is an "English football" sport related to soccer. The entire family enjoys swimming and water skiing. They own a boat and the family often spends time at the near-by beaches.

PHS grade handouts?

By TRACY TUCKER
Pomona Reporter

Depsite the shortcomings of Pomona High School, it at one time had a good thing going academically. A PHS student was considered above average in the category of intelligence.

In fact, semester grades back up this theory. Fifty-four per cent of these grades were above average.

However, it now appears that so-called "S" and "B" students have been given free hand-outs, according to Principal Joseph Andrews. The Pomona High faculty has been too lenient in a student's marks.

"The trend is moving in the direction of teachers being very generous with "A" and "B" grades, which haven't been earned in my judgment," commented Andrews.

Andrews basis for this reasoning is legal, for according to the Iowa Tests given to seniors last fall, the over-all test scores were below average. This is a national test, which is supposed to evaluate seniors on what is considered normal knowledge by the 12th grade.

To compensate for the difference between grades and test scores, teachers are now supposed to crack down. No more easy "A"s.

This might be one solution to the problem, but perhaps this is the wrong problem.

Might not the issue be that, although teachers give out grades that students deserved and worked for, the course is just too easy?

Another question that arises is: just how much do the Iowa Tests really prove?

The manner in which they were conducted does not speak well of the school. Seniors were packed into the cafeteria (which got everybody off on the wrong foot to begin with), elbow to elbow. They were not told why they were obligated to take the test, therefore many students gave a haphazard effort. They just didn't care.

Still another possibility is that students who got the above average grades, took courses which the test didn't cover. What develops is that a student might be confronted with a problem that he knows nothing about, simply because he hasn't had a course in the subject. But, he can still rightfully salvage above average grades, because he did well in courses the test didn't cover.

Young adulthood: responsibility but improper means?

By LINDA BARRETTA
Teen Scope Reporter

Today an undetermined number of 18-to 21-year-olds are legally adults in the state of California. Though I am not one of them, I am close enough to realize what's happening and to be concerned about the results.

In the first place, I do not believe that adulthood is something that can be bestowed by state law. I seriously doubt my own capacity to meet the demands of this new status, and as a result, I have a tendency to doubt the capacity of others as well.

There are both positive and negative aspects to the issue. For example, as legal adults we can sue, but we can also be sued. We may sign contracts, but our parents are no longer legally bound to back us if we can't meet our debts. And, of course, we still cannot drink, which seems illogical, since drinking is supposedly a status symbol of adulthood.

At 18, we may leave home and marry, both without our parents' consent. But it will be no easier to get a job than it was before. Crossing the borderline into adulthood does not erase the fact that you are 18 and inexperienced. We don't expect privileges because of our youth when unemployment is affecting people of all ages. But we are expected to be responsible for our debts.

My basic disagreement with the new law is that it gives us the privileges and responsibilities of adulthood, but not the means with which to maintain them.

I guess the vote could be considered a "means." But (and this just reinforces my doubts about our ability to meet the demands of adulthood) the percentage of 18-to 21-year-olds who have registered to vote is not encouraging. We seem to be acting like spoiled kids who only want something (i.e., the vote, adulthood) because we don't have it, and who lose interest the minute we get it.

The vote is not a toy, it is a weapon. And considering how few weapons we really have, it would be a tragic mistake to blow this chance to bring about change. It won't be long before we sink into the apathy we have so long accused others of sinking into, if we continue at our present rate.

Let's not revert to the hypocricy we deplored such a short time ago. We've got ideas worth considering — let's make them heard! Register and vote!

It Happened in Pomona

By Doc Peirsol

When Women's Lib jelled

What were Pomona's liberated women doing in October, 1892, to demonstrate their ability to participate, along with some of the best male brains in the country, in an undertaking of worldwide importance? They were busily putting up jellies for the coming World's Fair in Chicago, that's what.

But lest you get the impression that in engaging in jelly making these Pomona women were merely demonstrating their inferior female role as cooks and housewives, I hasten now to correct such an erroneous conclusion. Along with hundreds of other California women, those gifted Pomona ladies had determined to erect a "Jelly Palace" at the World's Fair. And what a palace it was to be.

"The palace will be 16 by 20 feet in size and 25 feet high," it was stated in an Oct. 1, 1892, article in the Pomona Weekly Times. "It will be entered by 3 marble steps and two open doors. The different jellies, which will be of every conceivable color, will be placed in glasses and goblets of different sapes and sizes. The darker will be arranged around the base and, from this upward, the jellies will shade into lighter colors. There will be windows of artistic design in imitation of mosaic works — and the interior will be lighted by electricity."

Before the ladies actually got down to jelly making over hot cook stoves, however, at least a dozen afternoon-tea committee meetings were held in order to finalize the plans and specifications. Which shows just how smart Pomona's liberated women of 1892 really were. Every one of those committee meetings was glowingly publicized in Pomona's newspapers.

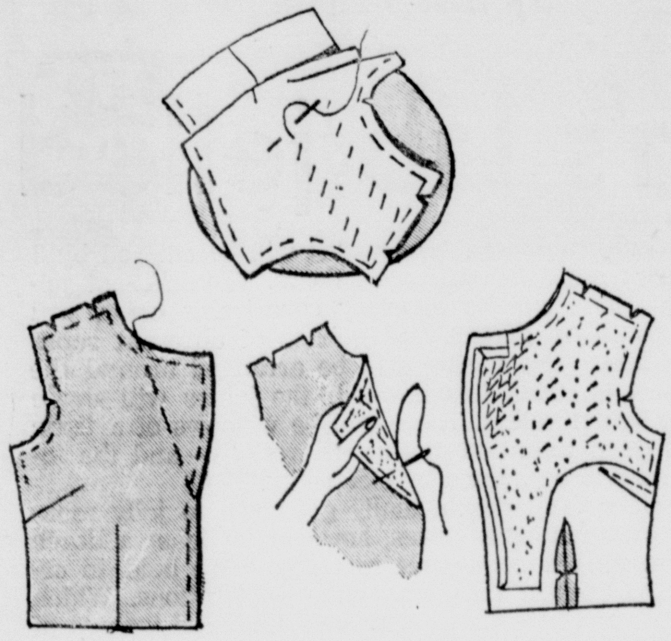
Basic fashion for spring



ROLL LINE — From the new issue of Basic Fashion come these instructions for establishing a good roll line on the lapel of a tailored jacket. 1) Baste interfacing to jacket front, working on a curve tailor's hem; 2) baste roll line on right side; 3) work padding stitches with lapel rolled over your hand; 4) inside jacket front, with interfacing and padding stitches.

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

What's at the top of your stitchin' list for spring? A good-looking blazer pantsuit in a flattering double-knit? An Oriental slit-to-here sheath in a beautiful brocade? A slimming dress and jacket in the prettiest Irish linen you can find?

Patterns for all these great new looks, and many more, are featured in the Spring and Summer issue of Basic Fashions, available exclusively to readers of this newspaper. Just barely off the press, Basic Fashion offers more patterns, more ideas and more solid sewing information for the money than any other pattern-fashion book.

Highlighting this issue is a new collection of Young Originals designs. These popular styles represent the best work of student designers from the Art Institute of Chicago and the University of Southern California. Each design looks young, fresh, right and new; each is packaged with the sew-easy Photo-Guide and a companion coordinator suggesting colors, fabrics, accessories and design variations.

As I went through the books looking at the new designs, I noticed that many are designed for slimming. Naturally, all the Grace Cole designs for women's and halfsizes make use of slenderizing design tricks—but many of the regular sizes feature hip-skimming A-line skirts, narrow center front panels, interesting neckline details, side closing and half-belts — all designer secrets guaranteed to shave off inches and pounds.

The Sewing Supplement is terrific, with an excellent section telling you how to handle all kinds of hems, a spread on tailoring techniques, and a budget-wise mending section with a new method of absolutely invisible patching.

Basic Fashions always has complete directions for something you can make without ordering a pattern. This issue features an attractive sleeveless jacket and a playpen cover with a darling duck applique. There are patterns a-plenty for mother-daughter outfits, coats and capes, clothes for little girls, aprons, robes, separate, lingerie and even fashions for men and dolls.

No matter what you're planning to sew for spring, don't start till you get your copy of Basic Fashion! To order, send $1.25, which includes postage and handling, to Stitchin' Time, c-o Progress-Bulletin, Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10020. Ask for Basic Fashion, and be sure to include your own name, address and zip. When you get your copy, turn to page 44 for a special surprise—a coupon entitling you to a free pattern!

Energy Spread

CHICAGO (UPI) — Safety experts say seatblets lengthen the stopping distance of the body that is suddenly jerked during an auto accident. This means that instead of having all the force let out at the spot where a passenger's head hits the dashboard, the stopping energy is spread over a wider area.

LET'S ASK THE COOK

by Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN:

To think I am 75 years old and in years past have tried all the things that household hints have to offer for scorched, burned-on food. In helping to care for a 95-year-old lady I burned oatmeal in a kettle and was almost prepared to go out and buy her a new one.

"Think nothing of it, honey" was her cool reply. "Fill the pan with liquid bleach, and let it set until tomorrow morning."

I did and when I looked there wasn't a trace of food, burned or otherwise. I've tried this a number of times with perfect results. I have not tried it, however, on the nonstick-lined pans but then they aren't supposed to stick, much less char or burn.—Marie Van, San Diego

No, they aren't, but I can tell you it can happen if you let something cook dry. Then the whole lining can come off. We are cautioned never to use bleach on that type of pan. Mrs. Robert L. Britton of Fayette, Mo., agrees with you but she uses a solution of one part bleach to four parts water. Then she places it on low heat or in a slow oven if the pan is not flameproof. "That black stuff comes off like magic."

DEAR NAN:

Perhaps you would like to try my meat loaf. Several years ago I combined several different recipes and came up with this one. It has been featured on local TV shows, columns and cookbooks. One editor said she believed half the women in Oak Ridge had made it and loved it. I know all my friends and relatives do.

Combine 1 slightly beaten egg, ½ cup evaporated milk, 2 slices of bread torn in pieces, ½ envelope of dry onion soup mix, 1 can of tomato soup and 2 tablesp. prepared mustard. Let stand 15 minutes before adding 1 lb. ground beef or chuck, ½ pound mild sausage, 1 small chopped onion, 2 slices grated cheese, salt and pepper to taste. Mix well. Bake at 350 for 1 hour-15 minutes. Drain off excess juices and save for home-made vegetable soup.—Mrs. Ola Thomas, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

We're always in the market for another good meat loaf. Sometimes I'm sure they are more typically American than apple pie. So now yours has moved out of the local field to international coverage.

You and your family are sure to love some of the original ideas Nan Wiley gives you in her booklet "50 Nifty Kitchen Tips."

Add Fertilizer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House plants will grow well if fertilizer is added every third or fourth time they are watered; that is, every two to four weeks. That is according to plant scientists in the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Fire Hazard

CHICAGO (UPI) — During winter, water pipes often freeze. But thawing them with blow torches or using any open flame often creates a fire hazard — and you know there may be no water immediately available, the National Safety Council reminds.

Most Appealing

When donating clothing to a rummage sale, be considerate of those running the sale — and also consider the purchasers. If possible, make simple repairs such as sewing on buttons and snaps. Clean, neatly pressed and hangered or folded items are most appealing.

Tiny Bottle

A one-half ounce bottle is meant to help when giving medicine or vitamins to a baby too young for a spoon. The bottle comes with a regular nipple so an infant can suck in his medicine the same way he takes his other nourishment. Both bottle and nipple can be scrubbed in hot soap or detergent suds.

Living room front, rear

By HIAWATHA ESTES

There are those who prefer a home with a living room at the front end of the house together with all the advantages associated with such a location. Conversely, there are others who prefer a home designed where the living room is at the rear of the house. Here is a plan where such a decision is not necessary since the living room faces both directions.

From the roofed front porch, twin doors open to a wide entry. A wall of storage closets separate the entry and dining. A spacious country kitchen is accessable from the entry as well as the garage. A wide pantry adds considerable storage space to this room. Three wide windows on one wall join sliding glass doors at the rear wall to form a wall of glass which will visually extend this room to include the entire rear yard!

Laundry facilities, including wall cabinets, are located in an offset at the rear of the garage. The furnace and water heater are also located here. A second water heater is next to the family bath.

A handsome corner fireplace dominates the L-shaped living-dining room. This room has as much glass area as the country kitchen. Wide winows are located in both the front and rear walls while sliding glass doors offer access to the wide patio at the rear of the home. Particularly note the wall-enclosed court at the front of the plan. This court could be used as an outdoor living area or landscaped and utilized as a garden.

The stunning master bedroom suite consists of a huge bedroom, a lighted dressing area with a wide wardrobe and a twin pullman lavatory plus a private bath. Next to this bath is the family bath which will save on plumbing costs.

This same basic floor plan and exterior is available in both a two-and three-bedroom design in our book Hallmark Homes.

Complete working drawings of this plan can be purchased for only $11.50 for the first set and $6.30 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until July 5, 1972. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior of this home may be purchased for $1.05. A specification book is also available for $1.05 as are the following home plan books: Distinctive Homes—$1.31' Prize Homes—$1.31; Town & Country Homes — $1.31' Hallmark Homes — $1.31; Homes by Hiawatha—$1.31; Ranch & Modern Homes—$2.10. All books—an $8.66 value—only $6.88. Prices include sales tax and postage. Send all orders to Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Calif. 91324.

Mirrorlike finish is no soft touch

By MR. FIX

Smooth mirror finishes on furniture and floors don't come out of a can or off the end of a brush. The best varnish, lacquer or shellac will not give a perfect finish without proper preparation of the surface first.

Many people go ahead and brush on the finishing material with the notion that minor scratches and flaws in the wood surface will be covered up and not be noticeable.

If anything, the flaws will be even more pronounced. This is especially true with dark-stained wood.

For that perfect finish, all scratches must be sanded out of the wood. Start with medium grit paper and progress to finer grits.

Sand with the grain. On a flat surface, back the sandpaper with a solid block of wood and try to use pressure as uniformly as possible.

Examine the work frequently so that you do not sand off too much of the surface. Sight along the surface for irregularities. Run your fingers over it for ridges and rough spots your eyes do not readily detect.

When you think you have sanded the surface as smooth as you possibly can make it, go over it again with very fine sandpaper. This will remove the fine scratches left by previous sandings — scratches you may not notice now but which will be apparent once the finish is applied.

Wipe or vacuum frequently as you work. After the final sanding give the surface a good wiping with a tack cloth. This is a cloth with a slightly sticky surface and is available at most paint stores. Lacking this, use a rag moistened with turpentine.

Actual finishing should be done in a room as free of dust as possible. Use a full brush and flow the finishing material on with long strokes. Apply across the grain and then brush with the grain when the brush is almost dry.

The finish should be thoroughly dry before succeeding coats are applied. Each coat should be lightly sanded with very fine sandpaper or fine steel wool before the next one is applied.

Certain woods such as oak and walnut have open grain which will not provide a completely smooth finish no matter how much sanding you do. For an absolutely perfect finish these woods must be treated with a paste wood filler to fill up the pores.

Thin the filler with turpentine until it is like a thick paint. Then brush it in across the grain covering only a small surface at a time. As the filler is about to dry it must be rubbed in with a coarse rag and then the excess wiped off. Do not wait too long.

Fillers are available in a so-called natural color and in tints to match various woods. Tinting colors also are available. Check the color on some out of the way corner of the wood before application.

TV and Appliance NOTEBOOK

By CLIFF KING

Now that all the movies shown at theaters carry a rating symbol, there is some curiosity about why the movies shown on television shouldn't also be rated by the net-works or by the newspapers. Parents especially feel the need for some kind of rating system that would help to determine whether or not they should allow the youngsters to watch each particular film.

This is not a simple thing to do. The editing of motion pictures, done by either the network or the local station, is often for the purpose of cutting to a certain playing time, as well as to eliminate objectionable portions. Last minute editing might possibly change an "X" or "R" rated movie into a fully acceptable "G" rating. If in doubt, read the brief description of the film in the newspapers TV program section. It provides the best clue as to suitability and interest.

The best clue as to our integrity in TV service is our 38 years of conscientious service to this community. Ask anyone we have served, then call us.

Personal finance

Bequeath or not bequeath

By CARLTON SMITH

Much of the traditional thinking about retirement funds and retirement income is all wrong, according to pundits in the behavorial sciences who've been taking an interest in the subject lately.

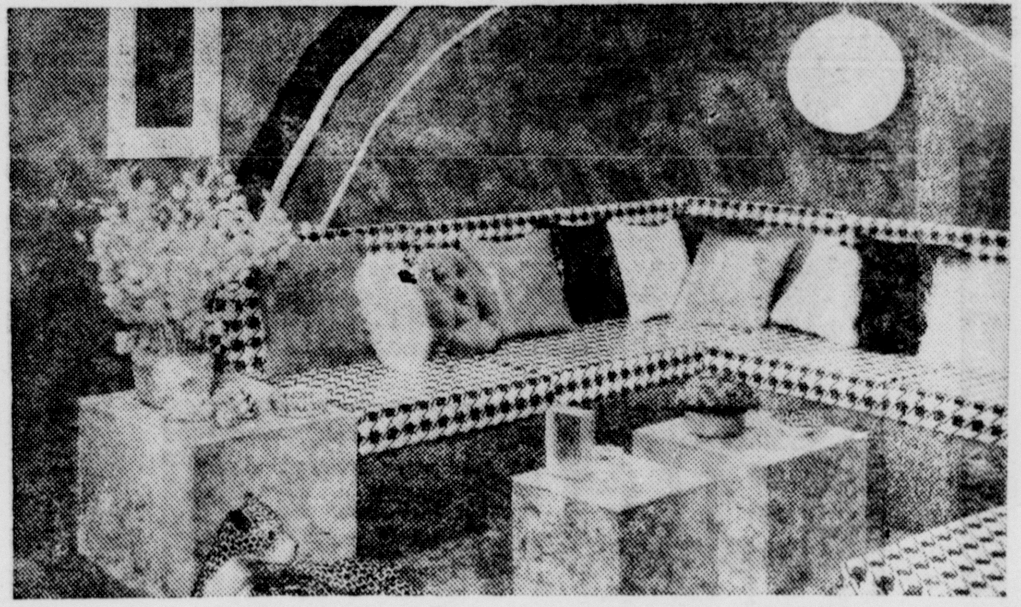
Specifically, they've made a plausible case against the hallowed notion that you hang onto all the capital you can, through the retirement years, so that when it's all over you can leave the children a nice inheritance.

A number of psychologists believe that even when the expected inheritance is modest, the situation makes for unwholesome family relationships. Subconsciously, the heirs may be waiting for and wishing for the old folks to die, so the will can be read and the loot passed around.

Other experts in the sociology of aging maintain that the traditional emphasis on conserving capital casts its pall on the life style of the retirees, who may feel it's "wrong" to spend for their own pleasure and enjoyment. Retirees thus tend to lead restricted and inactive lives, they observe, even when some of the foregone pleasures of life are financially feasible.

Finally, there's the argument that the expectation of an inheritance may be no favor to the heirs themselves. Students of the psychology of success, or the personal history of the achiever, tend to support this view. The individual who's motivated to make it solely on his own, they say, usually has a stronger drive than one who can anticipate a financial cushion later in life, even a fairly modest one.

The traditinal rule that you "never invade principal" is partly rooted in the economics of an earlier era, when support in retirement years was dependent entirely on the individual's resources, or the family. Today, with basic necessities covered by Social Security and Medicare, experts in the economics of family life point out, it's feasible to program a gradual spending of a portion of retirement funds.



It's amazing what a little stickum can do for a dull corner. Built-in sofas here are slabs of latex foam rubber on plywood platforms with foam rubber back bolsters. Hounds tooth pattern is 54-inch heavy-gauge vinyl upholstery and tables are cubes of plywood covered with patterned self-adhesive vinyl and the silver foil. Walls are covered with red polished patent in self-adhesive vinyl and the graphic design is strips of black, white and sapphire blue self-adhesive vinyl.

More about

Russ poet

To say I am sinless would be telling lies, but generally speaking I'm on the righ track!
You know, all those whom you hate set this up as the true state, while the cigarettes take on the smell of burning flesh, the Winstons and the Kents, and the bullet which passed through John kills Robert Kennedy.

Brash and youthful, lusty and corny, Yevtushenko is alive, has—as he confesses—"a greediness for life." In his role as poet he pleases and offends but he cannot be ignored for the wrong reasons.

If he says
The stars
In your flag America,
Are bullet holes
he also says
At night, beneath this snowfall, its whispered secret having made us one,
America and I sat down together in the place for lost children.

Expert lists advantages of hardboard

Why has hardboard use for interior paneling and exterior siding been rising so rapidly?

"It's no surprise," suggests John Concord, home building consultant to Masonite Corporation. "Rather, it reflects a growing recognition of architects, designers, builders and home owners to the advantages of hardboard as a construction material."

He lists some of these as follows:

1. Hardboard siding and paneling are style innovators.

2. Made of wood, the products have qualities missing the natural product: They won't split, splinter or crack; they are grainless, and therefore hold paint better and longer; they cost less and are easily maintained by damp-wiping; they are dent, abrasion and weather resistant.

3. Many of the hardboard panels and sidings have unusual three-dimensional surface treatments. In most cases, these are unavailable in other products except at premium prices.

4. Many of them come with a factory-primer or prefinished, ready for installation, and they are easily maintained.

5. Their uniformity of dimension and minor movements due to changing weather make installation quicker and maintenance easier.

6. Hardboard products are compatible with not only variations in their own lines but with contrasting materials such as stone, brick and masonry.

7. They are relatively noiseless under severe weather conditions such as hail storms and high winds. They are nonconductors of electricity.
